Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 27 | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI | FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1939 | NUMBER 79

The P. C. Editor Says:

The Standard will be glad to co-operate 100 per cent with The Herald to make the forthcoming Jubilee the biggest event of the sort ever held in any Southeast Missouri City regardless.

The Old Guard in both the Republican and Democratic parties can see nothing good in anything Mr. Roosevelt has accomplished, so to find out what the rank and file of both parties think, we recommend Mr. Hoover as the candidate for the Old Guard and Mr. Roosevelt as the candidate for the people. The result would be pitiful.

The Standard office was honored Wednesday morning with a visit from Rev. D. K. Foster, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. W. P. Robertson, and Mrs. Charles Dorroh, of Caruthersville, who were en route to Ironton to attend a regional denomination meeting. We were very glad to meet these ladies—and Rev. Foster.

Hardly a day passes but what we are appealed to to get some one reinstated on the WPA rolls, to hurry up the old age assistance, to write the Senators and Congressman to get some one a fat job of some sort. This is to advise all these worthy people that we have no influence at home nor abroad therefore would probably hurt than help if we should attempt these requests.

From remarks we hear of the bump the Greyhound bus gave to the car driven by young Lambert you can take with two grains of salt the two lines carried in Sikeston's second paper that "You can believe what you read in The Herald." Yes, it is the family paper. It takes the place of mail order catalogues in Chick Sales specials.

Our grocer must be a moss-backed conservative and an old Tory, to boot. He wouldn't even listen to us when we tried to tell him that what we owed him was an asset and the more he allowed us to owe him, the greater asset he would have.—St. Louis Star.

From out in Virginia came a letter from Miss Jeanne Payne claiming $2.00 for recognizing the editor's picture among the silhoutes printed the past two weeks. The $2.00 has been mailed to her address with our compliments.

Clubhouse Workers to Paving Job

Golf Course Project Awaits Mill Work; Smaller Jobs Remain

During a work lull at the golf clubhouse, the WPA crew that has been doing the labor there has been shifted to the street paving operations on North Park Avenue and plumbing fixtures are being installed in the clubhouse.

The clubhouse work was tied up because of a delay in receiving mill work. Only the windows have arrived, according to Herb Daugherty, who has been foreman on the job. Doors are needed to close the building, and are expected by July 1, when it is believed crew operations can be resumed.

Mr. Daugherty said he hoped to close the building for a night prior to installing celotex on the walls, to lessen expansion and contraction within so that the insulation will fit better.

Because there is a limited amount of money in the sponsor's funds, the crew of 41 which left the clubhouse project will be replaced by a crew of 21 or 22 when work is resumed there, he said. All heavy concrete work is completed, requiring less manual labor. The only remaining concrete work will be the pouring of bases in rooms where hardwood flooring is not used. Inside casing work is about the only other important task remaining.

By going temporarily to the paving job, a WPA exemption was filed so that the number of non-certified workers could be decreased. Previously, 5 per cent of the workers—those certified for relief and rating a lower wage scale—were allowed in this bracket, the foreman said. Under the exemption 10 per cent may be certified workers, allowing the funds to go farther in payment for work.

It may take two more months to complete the clubhouse, Mr. Daugherty said, due to the lack of workmen specially skilled in finishing work.

Scott County Chooses Farm Bureau Board

Sixteen co-chairmen, two from each of the eight townships in Scott County, have been selected by the Farm Bureau Executive Board to assist Miss Ella Fikuart, home demonstration agent, and Leon M. Lane, county agent, to plan the 1940 Extension Program for Scott County, according to Carl Luper, president of the Scott County Farm Bureau.

These leaders, with the townships which they represent, are as follows: Mrs. Lem Buck, A. B. Greer, Commerce Township; Mrs. Louis Albrecht, John W. Heeb, Kelso Township; Thomas E. Chewning, Otto Diebold, Moreland Township; Mrs. Otto Bugg, Amos McMullin, Morley Township; Mrs. E. C. Graham, A. E. Davis, Sandywoods Township; Mrs. Chas. Diebold, R. C. Willett, Sylvania Township; Mrs. Ivie Lewis, J. J. Reiss, Richland Township; Mrs. Joe Stricker, Edwin F. Birk, Tywappity Township.

Since an extension program, to be of fullest value to the county, must be based upon problems of the people, these committeemen must first determine the problems affecting farming, home and living conditions, and the community; to do a thorough job each two chairmen have appointed eight committeemen, four men and four women in their township, to meet with them on the night of June 28 to designated places within each township. When the major problems for the township have been determined, the co-chairmen will meet with the Farm Bureau Executive Board, the Extension Club council and the agents and determine which problems will be worked on in 1940.

State Sales Tax Extended

Senate Votes to Have It Continued at Two Per Cent Through 1941

Jefferson City, June 20.—The Senate disposed of one imperative preadjournment task today by passing a bill to extend the state's 2 per cent sales tax until December 31, 1941.

Its passage was the Senate's only accomplishment, however, with the upper branch of the Legislature still showing no sign of getting out of low gear in its delay drive toward an adjournment set for noon Saturday.

The entire day was spent on the sales tax and the jaded body returned for another night session—expected to be a nightly occurrence until the end of the record-long Legislature.

ONLY MINOR CHANGES

As finally adopted by the Senate after a day and a half of debate, the measure involves only minor administrative changes in the present sales tax law which has proved the state's largest single revenue producer — worth nearly $22,000,000 a year.

However, it must be concurred in by the House.

Two more appropriation bills reached the Senate floor with committee approval of allotments of $455,704 for expenses of the Legislature and $1,124,713 for the Highway Patrol. But the committee still had before it the toughest appropriation problem: What to do about the social security funds. It must be solved before adjournment.

In addition, there is Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's proposal to win federal blind aid, and another Stark-demanded bill to bring all classes of trucks under Public Service Commission fees.

TRUCK BILL PENDING

The latter measure spent three unhappy days on the Senate floor last week and appears likely to face another prolonged bombardment when it is called up again—probably tomorrow.

Also to be crammed into the closing rush are compromise agreements on numerous bills now in conference and aproval of conference reports on several appropriation measures.

Even the legislative leaders who sponsored yesterday's agreement to quit Saturday admitted it would take a sharp quickening of pace to finish by then.

First Movie Taken in Sikeston Completed

Sikeston has been permanently recorded for posterity in moving pictures. The Kiwanis production was completed Tuesday at noon. There were 3100 feet of film used to completely portray the town activities for the silver screen. A preview will be given on Saturday or Sunday. The first public showing is scheduled for Monday, June 26, at the Malone Theatre. The box office will open at 12:45; screening will begin promptly at 1:00 p. m. and showing will continue until 11:00 p. m.

Tickets are now on sale. All Kiwanians have a supply. The public is urged to buy in advance and save a dime.

Interest in the pictures increased until the last minute. Business firms and organizations requesting to be included in the pictures. Almost the last picture taken was the group of children in Mrs. T. A. Martin's Story Hour for children.

About 50 business firms are represented in the screening. Not all could be included because of lack of time and space. However none was left out intentionally. It was impossible to include all.

Most of the religious organizations of the city, with their pastors and choirs are included.

All of the men's service clubs and the women's civic clubs have their pictures in the showing.

Federal, state and municipal officials and personnel were taken in their line of duty. The Boy Scouts and other groups of children and young people were filmed as they played.

There will be many surprises. Views were taken of the town from the top of the Marshall Hotel. There will be some trick photography at the swimming pool, on the streets and in business houses. Workers in some of the firms were so slow that they had to be speeded up. There will be humor, romance and drama. The only tragedy is that some failed to get into the movies.

The seeing public will view Dr. McMullin losing his dignity, Earl Allen embarrassed and other Kiwanians in humorous situations. They will see Bob Harper and Ed Hollingsworth running to keep from being late to Kiwanis meeting. Also, E. R. Putnam pushing his employees to get out rush orders. The Sikeston Bakery made such an attractive display of cakes and eats that a group of children were attracted to it. A kiddie review of about 25 children at Shainberg's store.

Some scenes were taken in the country; farmers harvesting, using combines and binders. Dairy herds are shown. The members of a 4-H Pig Club with their pigs appear on the film. The list seems endless.

The Kiwanis Club suggests that all who possible can attend in the afternoon and that the children take advantage of the matinee prices. An overflow crowd is expected at night.

Cattle Pink Eye Prevails

Extension Veterinarian Offers Solution to Scott County Epidemic

A widespread outbreak of pink eye among cattle in Scott County was disclosed in a letter from County Agent Leon Lane to Andred W. Uren, extension veterinarian at Columbia. A solution to the epidemic was offered by Dr. Uren, who said:

"We have found that the best thing to do in controlling outbreaks of pink eye in cattle is to remove the affected animals, if possible, from the direct rays of the sun; that is, to put the animals with affected eyes into a darkened barn and to keep them there during the day or while the sun is shining.

"The animals with affected eyes should have a few drops of 20 per cent solution of argyrol put in the eyes twice a day with an eye dropper. Most cases of pink eye will cure up within four to five days when third treatment is followed.

"In addition to this it is advisable to mow down the weeds that are in the pasture. This is especialy true if you have a heavy growth of ragweeds or other weeds that produce a lot of pollen. The pollen off the weed brushes off into the eyes of the cattle causing irritation and open, small wounds through which the organism that causes the infection enters. If the pasture in which the cattle are grazing have these weeds mowed down the pollen will not affect the eyes of the cattle and you are not so apt to have cases of pink eye as you are when the cattle are grazing in a lot of weeds."

Soehlig-Robinson Nuptials at Oran

Miss Mary Soehlig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Soehlig of Oran, and Noel Robinson, son of Mrs. A. E. Robinson of near Sikeston, were married the past week at the First Baptist Church in Oran, Rev. Warren performing the ceremony.

It was the first wedding at the church since it was built. A single ring ceremony was used. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Soehlig of Cape Girardeau were attendants. Mr. Soehlig is a brother of the bride.

The bride wore a floor-length delicate blue organza gown, and the bridesmaid floor-length delicate peach organza. The song, "I Love You Truly", was sang by Miss Hazel Jennings, accompanied by Miss Eudora McCarty. Miss Jennings played the wedding march. Only the immediate members of the family and a few friends were present. Dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Robinson has been employed for the past two years at the Scott County Oil Co. in Oran and is going to continue to work there. Mr. Robinson is a carpenter, and the couple will live at Oran.

Mat Murray Quits K. C. Job

Defends Record, Denies Padding Payroll of Public Works Department

Kansas City, June 20.—Matthew S. Murray, political beneficiary of the imprisoned "Boss" Thomas J. Pendergast, today resigned as director of public works of Kansas City in preference to relinquishing his federal post as state WPA director.

Murray told the Star-Times his resignation was "the direct result of the heat" turned on him as a result of disclosures of payroll padding in the street cleaning division of his public works department.

Denying responsibility for the padding, Murray added, "I have done a good job as director of public works."

Murray's resignation was in answer to an ultimatum delivered yesterday by Mayor Bryce B. Smith demanding that Murray give up one of his two jobs.

By choosing to retain his WPA post, at least, temporarily rather than his city job, Murray is sacrificing $2,000 a year. As director of public works he received $8,000 a year. His salary as WPA director is $6,000 a year.

House Cheers Clark For President

Jefferson City, June 20.—Mention of Missouri's senior United States Senator, Bennett Champ Clark, for the presidency of the United States brought applause in the House today.

The Senator's father, Champ Clark, former Speaker of the National House of Representatives and nearly successful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1912, was being praised as "one of Missouri's greatest citizens" by a Republican lawmaker when Representative John D. Taylor (Dem.), Keytesville, interrupted:

"Won't the gentleman of the minority try to persuade his 51 brethern to join with the majority in performing one of the finest acts of their careers in 1940—electing Champ Clark's illustrious son President of the United States?"

The remark came while the House was considering purchasing a $2500 oil painting of Champ Clark to hang in the Lower Chamber where he served in 1889.

DRAINAGE CAMP UNDER SOIL CONSERVATION

Clark E. Jacoby, who has been drainage inspector for the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Engineering since the spring of 1935, closed out his work for the Bureau Thursday and started to Milwaukee to report. He has been in charge of the drainage camps in Missouri and of several in Illinois and Kentucky. All the drainage camps pass out of the control of the bureau on June 30th and thereafter will be supervised by the Soil Conservation Service. Inspector Jacoby will also be taken over by the SCS and will work out of the new Milwaukee SCS office in an engineering inspection capacity.

REA Rescues Bullfrogs In Dire Need

Electricity Solves the Food Problem; Staking Of Extension Continues

How the REA saved the bullfrogs day was related Wednesday by H. M. Zaricor of this city, superintendent of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Co-operative Association.

A few years back, John Russell, who lives two miles from Sikeston on the Salcedo road, got the idea he would like to raise bullfrogs at his farm as a hobby.

He went to work and dug a series of three ponds some distance from his house and installed the bullfrogs. Sometimes times were good and the frogs got enough to eat. Again, times were tough, the bullfrogs got thin and as many as half of them died. It all depended upon the quantity of food they received. And it was problem to get them the food.

REA TO THE RESCUE

In the midst of this bullfrog plight, came the REA. When the co-operative built a line out of Sikeston Mr. Russell became a subscriber. After he had arranged for lighting his houses and around his barn, he decided to do something about the frogs, whose legs are a choice dish on any table.

Buying 300 feet of insulated wire, he extended a line by means of a series of small poles from his house to the ponds, providing a complete circuit for the 1500-foot distance. Lights were strung over the ponds. They are lit from about 7 to 10:30 o'clock each evening Bugs by the thousands, attracted by the lights, topple into the water. The bullfrogs do the rest. Needless to say, the waistlines of these frogs are now stretched to the limit.

EXTENSION PROGRESSES

Easements on the 208-milee extension are now being secured as the REA engineer stake out the line, Mr. Zaricor said. This method will be shorter in the long run, he said. About 80 miles have been staked to day, and a portion of this are branches from the original line as well as the Stoddard extension.

Approximately 14 miles will be added when the full La Forge project plans are completed. There will be nine miles in Mississippi County added, and 14 in Scott County. The remainder of the 80 miles, for the most part, extends into Stoddard County west from Canalou, and some of it goes into the county from Salcedo.

"Once we get 100 miles of continuous line staked, the contractor can begin on the pole lines," the superintendent said.

POLES BOW TO ROAD

In order to make way for the widening of the road from Brown's Spur north to the Tanner road, a distance of four miles, poles are being set back from their original holes a distance of 15 feet—without shutting off the current. Only two men move the poles, which support four wires on a three-phase circuit. George Ewing, assistant project superintendent, and Billy Keller jack up a pole on an A-frame, and ease it in the direction of the new hole, while guy ropes keep the pole from toppling. They can hit a pace of five a days.

Vandals Damage Dressing Rooms

Damage to lockers and plain vandalism has been reported at the High School, occurring in dressing rooms of both boys and girls in the evening during softball games. As an accommodation to players and spectators, doors leading to the dressing rooms and toilets are left unlocked. Youngsters broke into virtually every locker in the two dressing rooms by bending back the tin doors. Only a few lockers had locks on them, but all doors were bent back. In the boys' dressing room a hose was left running full blast, flooding the floor. A watch will be kept to catch any boys attempting to do further damage.

DRAGLINE MOVED WEST OF CONRAN

The structure crew of the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp, under the supervision of Foreman Cecil A. Westmoreland, helped the Speeder dragline Monday and Tuesday in getting across a large inlet entering Ditch 56, west of Conran.

Farmers Plan Soils and Crops Conference

Scott County will hold summer soils and crops meetings on July 11.

According to County Agent Lane, one meeting starting at 8:30 a. m. will be held at the farm of Theon Grojean at New Hamburg. The other meeting will be a tour of several farms in the vicinity of the Hunter School, three miles north of Sikeston. Detailed plans for the meetings are being worked out by Carl Luper, Chas. Gardner and Arthur Schiwitz, officers of Scott County's Soils and Crops Committee for 1939.

At these meetings special effort will be made to enable Scott County farmers observe how some farmers have adjusted their farming operations to best fit their individual farms, so as to conserve their soil to best advantage and at the same time provide adequate incomes for their families.

These meetings are being scheduled in most counties of the state as a follow-up to the annual soils and crops conferences. Scott County's fifth annual soils and crops conference held last February was attended by 200 delegates and visitors. This meeting should furnish a good opportunity to observe under actual farm conditions some of hte factors discussed at the winter conference.

The program at the meeting will be based upon the current problems Scott County farmers are facing in conserving their soil and maintaining adequate incomes. The improvement of pastures, adapting cropping systems to individual farms, the best methods of using lime and fertilizer for most efficient returns, the use of good seed, and the growing of crops that best fit the needs of Scott County farmers will be observed and discussed.

Suspect in Auto Theft

Negro Picked Up Near Bertrand Wanted by Yazoo City, Mississippi

Taken into custody at Bertrand after he failed to give his correct name to Sgt. Melvin Dace of the State Patrol Andrew James Johnson, 31, negro, is being held in the Charleston jail on a charge of auto theft in Mississippi.

A message here Tuesday from Sheriff Warren at Yazoo City, Miss., said Johnson was wanted there for stealing a 1938 Buick. The negro worked at a service station, it was explained, and departed with a customer's car, wrecking it shortly after. This occurred two months ago.

The patrolman stopped and questioned Johnson as the negro was walking toward Charleston. He gave the name Andrew Jones, but papers indicating his real name were found in his pocket. Johnson said he had worked around Hayti and had chopped cotton in this vicinity. Cairo was his destination, he said.

A first message said Johnson was wanted for murder, but this information proved unfounded.

In the company of a constable and city marshal of Salem, Mo., who came here Wednesday, Sgt. Dace arrested a man named Fontaine at New Madrid on a charge of burglarizing a drug store in Salem. Fontaine lived with relatives at New Madrid. The Salem officers took him back there the same day.

GRASSHOPPERS REPORTED IN TWO COMMUNITIES

Grasshoppers were reported to be showing up to a considerable extent on some two or three farms in the Lilbourn community, according to P. J. Stearns, a member of the County Insect Control Committee. Also, John Klipfel of the Conran community reported that hoppers were appearing in fairly large numbers on his farm and on one or two of the neighboring farms. Although no very serious damage has been done as yet every farmer in the county is urged to keep a close lookout and start spreading some poison bait from the mixing station just as soon as he discovers hoppers, in any quantity of his farm.

REV. MILNER CONDUCTS TWO-WEEK REVIVAL

Rev. E. W. Milner, pastor of the First Baptist Church, went to Fornfelt Monday where he entered a two-week revival meeting at the First Baptist Church there. The pastor of the Fornfelt church will be in Sikeston Sunday to preach during the Rev. Mr. Milner's absence.

Officials Plans For Second Fall Festival

Murray Phillips Named Chairman; Tentative Dates are October 6-7

Plans and possibilities for the Fall Festival were made at a meeting of business men Monday evening in the office of John Powell, and the date of the second annual Sikeston jubilee was tentatively set for Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7.

Officers previously had been re-elected at a meeting in January, and C. H. Denman, president, tendered his resignation Monday night. It was immediately accepted.

JUBILEE OFFICERS

Murray Phillips was elected to the chairmanship of the Festival.

Other officers are: Vice-president, C. L. Malone; secretary, John Powell; treasurer, C. D. Matthews, III. The Board of Director consists of Mayor G. W. Presnell, Mrs. P. A. McDougal, F. D. Lair, R. A. Harper and Mr. Phillips. Officers and directors were present.

Various ideas for the festival, in the way of entertainment and displays, were discussed, in order to form a general outline of the jubilee.

It is planned to secure ideas from merchants that would help secure the largest crowd possible.

WEATHER A FACTOR

The dates set for the event were selected tentatively because it was felt that the week end last year, coming the last week in September, was a trifle hot. Festival officials in the next few weeks will be on the lookout for any other Southeast Missouri events which might be in conflict with the dates selected.

Expenditures and receipts of last event will be studied, Mr. Powell said, so that a budget for the coming celebration can be arrived at.

The purpose of the jubilee is to attract crowds from all over Southeast Missouri and show them the commercial advantages of Sikeston. Last year an estimated 10,000 persons attended. Cities from all parts supplied floats, bands and queen candidates.

Another meeting will be held in the near future.

Burial Society Bill Passed by House

Jefferson City, June 20.—The House pumped new life into a bill regulating burial societies today and passed it, 84 to 26, after almost a full day of boisterous debate.

Such bills have occupied both branches for many hours this session, but the subject was believed closed two weeks ago when the lower branch failed by one vote to pass its bill and a House committee at the same time killed a stricter Senate-approved measure.

The House measure, sponsored by Representatives Wayne V. Slankard of Newton County and Willis Lane, Stone County, was reconsidered and passed today. It would require the societies to pay in cash and permit members' families to select the undertakers.

It contains a provision that its terms shall not affect policies of associations now in existence, but foes of the bill said they feared this section might be removed by the Senate.

"What we ought to do with these societies is bury them," shouted Representative John D. Taylor, Keytesville, in a bitter attack on the associations.

"In all the 30 years I've been around this assembly, I've never seen as many lobbyists as the vultures who have been hovering here supporting the oposition to this bill."

Taylor charged one burial society operator testified at a House hearing that his association made an assesment of $30,000 for 116 funerals, an average of $258, while another operator said the average cost was $69.

It had been generally supposed that the visit of the King and Queen of England to the United States had been a successful and satisfactory affair. It seemed to be well understood that their British Majesties had enjoyed their visit and that the pleasant duties of hospitality had been handled without a hitch or any untoward incident.

It remained for the Honorable Hamilton Fish, ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Jeremiah-in-chief of the Republican party, to wake us from this happy dream. His complaint is that the G. O. P. was practically ignored in the social doings. The 169 Republican members of the House of Representatives and the 23 Republican Senators were all there at the Congressional reception, of course, and a Republican ex-Secretary of State and an ambassador or two of the same complexion were noted among the guests at some of the other functions. Nevertheless, Mr. Fish sees in the events of the great occasion of darkling political purpose of the President in making out the guest lists.

OVERLOOKING 1936

It so happens, of course, that in the 1936 elections the people of the United States, disregarding the advice and lamentations of the ranking Republican on the Foreign Affairs Committee, elected a Democratic administration. And as a natural consequence of this, the Cabinet officers and other high officials of the government are at this time of the Democratic persuasion. As the formal affairs were almost exclusively severely official, the political quality of those who attended seems logical enough. Mr. Fish in his objections to the matter does not go into detail as to what partisan subtlety the President had in mind. He apparently knows that there was some hidden purpose on his general theory that some furtive impulse lurks in everything the President does. Perhaps he thought that if the British Empire ever comes seeking admission to the American Union, the Britishers might, because of all the Democrats they met, make up new Democratic States.

Doubtless King George had at his elbow somebody who would indicate whether those who greeted him were Democrats, Republicans or Independents. It is more tenable perhaps that the British ruler had as vague an idea of our politics as we have of the politics of the British Isles. But just the same, Mr. Fish knows that somewhere there was hidden a deep plot against the Republicans.

The logic was exemplified the other day when Mr. Fish, who happens to represent the Congressional district in New York where Franklin D. Roosevelt has his home, objected to the establishment of a government library, the cost of which is to be defrayed by the President and friends, to house the Roosevelt archives at Hyde Park.

PRESIDENT ALWAYS WRONG

The G. O. P. has varied the old world saw that "The King can do no wrong" with the slogan that "the President is always wrong." According to their doctrine, he is wrong in his relief spending program. Likewise he is wrong when he tries to hold down the budget, to which the Senate added four hundred million dollars or so for farm subsidies, while all the time the Republican high command was filling the mails with pamphlets bewailing the Administration's extravagance and insisting that it was plunging the nation into bankruptcy. Somehow, the minority party never refers to the cricumstance that the United States Treasury bonds are selling at higher prices than bonds anywhere, nor do they refer to the circumstance that the American dollar is the most stable currency in the world.

There might be some substance to the ghost of national bankruptcy if, for example, the Townsend plan, for which fifty-five Republicans in the House voted the other day, was ever put into effect, inasmuch as the fiscal experts tell us that that would involve a government expenditure beside which the Treasury's deficit sounds like peanut money.

The Republican high command may deny responsibility for the fifty-five Republican Representatives who pledged themselves to Dr. Townsend in their vote hunting before election and who went through with it when they were forced to a record vote in the House. The minority party propagandists, in voicing their horror at what the Rosoevelt administration is doing, called the WPA project "boondoggling," notwithstanding that the great bulk of expenditures of WPA have gone into roads, bridges, public buildings, city sewage systems, flood prevention dams, and other examples of needed construction and utilities, while providing work for some millions who would otherwise be unemployed. The object to the extent of direct relief and in their 1936 campaigning they proclaimed the national Social Security Act, unemployment insurance, old age pension, etc., as a vicious socialistic program which was at once a fraud on the employer and a robbery of the employed. And yet the Republican National Committee has never by so much as a word disowned or repudiated the Townsend program of $200 a month pension to every man and woman in the United states over sixty-five years of age. It is estimated that there are eleven million of these elderly folks. And a recent article published in a financial magazine estimated the net cost to the government at $24,000,000,000 a year.

This silence is, of course, merely another vote getting device. It is a cruel hoax on the old folks, whose natural desire is security in their declining years, and leads them to believe the unbelievable and to accept as practical the most visionary proposal that has been heard since this country turned its attention to the problem of old age pensions. It is doubly a hoax, for in the first place no nation could endure the strain of such a policy, and second, because even in the unlikely event of the Republicans regaining control of the government, they would not dare attempt to fix such a burden upon us.

How much money do you suppose the plethoric Liberty League, under its various aliases, would contribute to elect a Republican candidate if they had the slightest idea that the latter's election would give us the Townsend plan?

"Clowns" at St. Louis Zoo Make Comedy for Movies

ST. LOUIS—(Special)—The 1939 edition of the St. Louis Zoo's "Jungle Follies," which will be seen in the flesh by thousands of tourists this summer, will also bring some hearty guffaws to movie audiences throughout the country.

A year ago Zoo officials rejected a flattering offer to take a troupe of the senior champanzees to Hollywood, so this season filmland has come to the animal kingdom to make a two-reel picture showing not only how funny these animals are, but how they get that way.

Big Show for Visitors

A holiday crowd of 35,000 is nothing unusual at this world-famous zoo, and the license plates of virtually every state may be seen on the driveways any day. There are four troupes of performing animals, including elephants and lions and tigers as well as the "Chimps." They give two full shows a day on week days and three on Sundays.

"Jackie and His Gang of Chimps" perform almost human tricks, having their own swing band, waltzing in pairs, jumping on stilts and doing an astonishing number of other stunts. Jackie himself smokes cigarets, rides a unicycle and picks out the melody of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on a special organ. The antics of another group, the "Chimp Kindergarten," reveal not only the remarkable aptitude of chimpanzees, but the methods used in training the younger animals to take the places of those which, upon reaching maturity, are difficult to control.

Funny Elephants Too

The chimpanzees have keen rivals in Marian, Vi and Clara Belle, young E[illegible]n elephants who go in for a sort of "dead pan" comedy visitors find hilarious. And for drama there's the combined lion and tiger show where these traditional jungle rivals are made to perform remarkable feats in the same cage and in complete docility.

With four such major attractions as its internationally-famous Municipal Opera, the Zoo, Shaw's Botanical Gardens and the Lindbergh Trophies, St. Louis has found it desirable to establish a "Visit St. Louis" Headquarters at 511 Locust Street, from which a booklet and other free literature are sent to those contemplating a visit to the Missouri metropolis. A larger influx of visitors is expected this summer than ever before because of increased traveling due to the two world's fairs.

Monkey Music-Maker

IT'S A WONDERFUL WORLD

ADAPTED FROM THE METRO-GOLDWYN MAYER PICTURE BY GERTRUDE GELBIN

RESUME

Private Detective Guy Johnson and Edwina Corday, goofy poetess, find themselves allies in the search for the real murderer of Dolores Gonzales, Broadway beauty. Guy knows that Willie Heyward, sentenced to die for the murder, has been framed. His only clue is the half of a dime he found next to the murdered girl's body. But: Vivian Heyward, Willie's wife, wears a half-a-dime on her charm bracelet; also, an item in a newspaper Personals Column signed HALF-A-DIME urges someone to come to the Saugerties Theatre and see the husband she thought dead. Guy believes that Vivian framed Willie so that she might inherit the Heyward fortune of ten million dollars and that she is now being blackmailed by HALF-A-DIME, her former husband whom she thought dead. After innumerable adventures, Guy and Edwina land at the Saugerties Theatre. Cap Streeter, Guy's co-worker at the New York detective agency traces him there. Edwina, believing Cap is a police detective, knocks him out with a lead pipe. Guy forbids her to do any further "sleuthing." In Dressing Room No. 7 he finds the newspaper containing HALF-A-DIME's Personals item. As he searches the room, a man enters.

Chapter Nine

WHO HAS THE CLUE?

"Hello, there, Half-A-Dime," Guy greeted slowly, "How's Vivian?"

The man stared at him. "Ah guess you got the wrong Mister. Mah name is Sam Peters — "

"I figured she got you by this time."

"Sorry, mah error," Guy drawled. "Ah'm Hemingway — come from Alabama. Just joined the cast. Ah guess Ah got your newspaper — found it behind your mirror — "

"That isn't mah mirror," Peters answered. "In this yeah haymow there ain't no pussonal mirror; you just grab any place as comes in handy. You-all dressin' with us?"

"Dunno," answered Guy. "How many's heah now?"

"A bunch of us — but you can shove in somewheres — "

"Well who's heah — anybody I know — "

"Well," said Peters, "there's Stan Robinson — Joe Marhouse — Jed Fillmore — Lupton Peabody. Do you know Lupton?"

Guy shook his head. Peters sat down at the dressing table to put on his make-up. While he busied himself, Guy hastily scribbled down the names he'd mentioned.

Meanwhile, Edwina was hunting down clues of her own.

Wearing a heavy veil and dark glasses, she entered the main theatre lobby to observe the people coming in. She hadn't long to wait before Vivian Heyward arrived. Edwina recognized her at once from her newspaper photographs. She also recognized the swarthy, suave man in dinner clothes, who entered a few moments later. He was Al Mallon. Guy had told Edwina that Mallon was supposedly Vivian's business manager.

Neither Vivian nor Al greeted each other. She opened her bag and took out a cigarette. As she put it to her lips, Mallon advanced with the courteous, detached manner of a stranger. "May I?" he asked and struck a match.

"Thank you," Vivian smiled.

Edwina strained her ears.

"Where did you put the car?" she heard Al ask softly.

"Parked it near your dressing room," Vivian replied. "Have you talked to him?"

"Why waste time talking?"

Vivian smoked silently for a second. "He said he'd take a million on the phone — "

"He won't need it tomorrow," Al said flatly.

"Good luck," she murmured.

He nodded and sauntered off.

Vivian made for the auditorium. Edwina, with deliberate intent, bumped into her.

"Will you please look where you're going?" Vivian demanded acidly.

"Terribly sorry," Edwina apologized.

They entered the theatre. Vivian sat down. Edwina pushed her way through the same row to a seat beyond, climbing over the other awkwardly.

"Why don't you watch where you're going?" Vivian said sharply.

"I'm so sorry," Edwina murmured. With her veil still covering her face she kept steady watch on Vivian.

Meanwhile backstage, Guy wandered from one player to another checking up the list of names Peters had given him.

A furtive "psst — psst — " stopped him. Cap Streeter, a huge bump on his bald head, was hailing him from the top of a tall ladder. Guy all but shouted in relief: Edwina hadn't killed Cap with her lead-pipe blow — and neither had the police found him.

"How are you feeling?" he managed to ask.

"So, so," answered Cap. "I figured she got you by this time—"

"Who?" Guy questioned.

"That hatchet woman — Vivian — she hit me over the head with something — she's the cruelest dame who ever lived — and she's sittin' out front as if nothing had happened — "

"So she's here, eh?" Guy mused.

"Yeah; just like nothing happened — "

"Well nothing has, yet — "

"What do you mean — nothing's happened," exploded Cap. "I been on the brink of death — "

"Oh, that," Guy replied. "She didn't do it — a friend of mine did it — "

"What are you talking about, Johnson? What friend?"

"It was a dame I picked up — "

"You mean it wasn't Vivian? Well who was it?"

"You wouldn't know her — "

"Why should she conk me, then?"

"She thought she were helping me; she thought you were a cop. She wanted to save me. Did they get your name?"

"Who?"

"The cops who found you hit on the head in my room?"

"Sure. How could I cover up. They checked up on me too — called the Major — "

"There goes the ball game," Guy said bitterly. "Ten to one Miller and Koretz had the Major's wire tapped — "

"Yeah — and that means that Lt. Miller and Sgt. Koretz of the New York Police will be up here before you can say Sing Sing!"

"We still got a chance," Guy insisted. "If Vivian's out front it means tonight's bank night. She's got somebody working for her backstage — "

"There ain't a chance," Cap replied, equally insistent. "We don't know who's gettin' killed or who's gonna do the killin' and we got a half hour to find out. As I see it, we got to solve a crime that ain't been committed and we gotta prevent it, too. Brother — I'm packing — "

"Listen," Guy pleaded. "I been holding out on you. I get a hundred grand from Willie Heyward if I win — and you're in on it—"

"I never see such a case of blind greed," Cap said dourly.

"We're wasting time," Guy remonstrated. "I've been after Half-A-Dime all day. He's one of three people. I've checked up on everybody else." He pointed to an electrician working high above them on the other side of the stage. "That guy's name is Lupton Peabody. You tackle him because I've got to go on the stage soon — tell him Vivian sent you as a go-between — "

"Curtain's going up," warned the stage manager.

Guy adjusted his uniform. "Watch out when the shooting starts," he advised and hurried off to take his place on the stage.

Cap made for the electrician at once. "Excuse me, are you Mr. Peabody — "

Peabody waved him aside. "I'm busy — go away — "

"Vivian sent me," offered Cap significantly.

"Who?" asked the other as he worked the spotlights.

"I'm your friend," hissed Cap. "You don't have to cover up for me, Half-A-Dime. Vivian is ready to listen to reason — "

"Go away," shouted Peabody, "or I'll call the stage manager — "

"I've a hundred grand in my pocket for you — "

The electrician looked about wildly. "Help — help — " he cried — "Mr. Delmonico — somebody — help — there's a mad man loose here — "

Cap ducked as the stage manager rushed forward in answer to Peabody's cries of distress. He managed to squeeze his way through the line of players making their exits and entrances on the stage. He would have disappeared into the night, if Edwina had not bumped into him with a force that practically floored him.

"I beg your pardon," she began—

The sound effects went off with a bang. Cap recalled that Guy's orders were for him to watch the shooting. He shoved her aside and looked wildly about as the men on stage pulled their guns.

"Quick," Edwina whispered, pulling at his arm.

"What? Who are you?" he hissed.

"Edwina Corday. Listen to me. Cap Streeter — they're out there—in front—watching the show—"

"Who?" he groaned.

"Those dicks Guy escaped from — those policemen — "

"What?" he groaned.

She nodded. "Yes. They're both out there — Lt. Miller and Sgt. Koretz —"

Will Miller and Koretz find Guy? Or will Edwina and Cap help him elude them? Read tomorrow's chapter.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete your highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

Concrete IS THE REAL LOW-COST ROAD

Long Bill and Riley Employ Feet to Win

Feet and legs played prominent part Wednesday night in a show—not a stage show, but the wrestling matches at the arena. Long Bill Hall kicked and stomped his way to victory over Floyd Byrd, and Tex Riley was too swift on the flying heels for Red Roberts.

Byrd found Hall's legs coming from all directions like an octupus and knew not when his own hold would be superseded by one from the lanky lengs. Byrd, however, won the first fall in 17 minutes with a bear hug and body pin.

The next two falls came so suddenly that the entire match was over before Byrd had a chance to return to normal breathing. In 40 seconds after the second round began, Hall tied Byrd in a knot with a hook scissors. And if the second fray was fast, so was the third. When the bell rang, Hall came to the center of the ring, gave Byrd a hard kick in the chest and then two body slams, followed by a hook scissors. That was all.

Riley won his first in 14 minutes with drop kicks. Each wrestler took a turn of tossing the other from the ring, and roughing and slugging was frequent. Roberts in his trip back to the ring brought a handful of gravel to assist himself against Riley, but the referee knew it would not be a friendly chat so he made Red give up his pebbles. Roberts won the second, in 10 minutes, with body slams. The deciding match went to Riley on kangaroo kicks. Five minutes had elapsed.

Louie Knickle, professional refereed from Chattanooga, Tenn., refereed both matches and did a good job. Mike Meroney is recovering from a throat operation.

"KATINKA" REVIVED AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

St. Louis — The long-famous comic opera success, "Katinka", will be revived at the open-air Municipal Theatre in Forest Park, beginning Monday night, June 26, and continuing through Sunday evening, July 2.

"Katinka" is one of the most successful works of the renowned composer, Rudolf Friml, who also wrote the music for such outstanding hits as "Firefly," "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King" and "The Three Musketeers." Author of the play is Otto Harbach, whose long list of musical successes include the "Cat and the Fiddle," "Roberta," and "No, No, Nanette."

A marvelous cast of prima donnas, comedians, leading men and dancers has been engaged for the comic opera. Billy House and Lester Allen, two incomparable comedians, who starred in "Queen High" and "Rose Marie," respectively, at the open-air theater this summer, will be on hand to insure a full evening of fun. Nancy McCord and Gladys Baxter, a pair of real queens, will be seen in principal feminine roles.

Other favorites of the current season appearing in "Katinka" are Douglas Leavitt, Frederic Persson, Eleanor Searlie, Al Downing and Dorothy Johnson.

Robert K. Shafer, a newcomer, will sing the male romantic lead of Ivan Dimitri. Shafer comes to the Municipal Opera with a long string of Broadway triumphs, including "Show is On," "At Home Abroad," and "Hooray for What." Another new star, Joseph Vitale, who also has been featured in numerous New York musical hits, will be seen in "Katinka."

Ted Adair, sensational dancer of the American stage, will join with the noted ballerina, Nina Stroganova, in supplying some brilliant dance specialties for the Friml piece. The Municipal Opera singing and dancing chorus also will be bright features of the production.

"Katinka" is famous for its gaiety and charm. There is an abundance of bright music, of the haunting quality for which Friml is famed. Among the familiar numbers are "In This Ruby Cup of Wine," "Tis the End, So Farewell," "The Weekly Wedding," "Rackey Coo," "In Vienna Girls Are Brightest," "My Paradise," "I Want to Marry a Male Quartet" and "On My Heart."

The story shifts between Russia and France. Boris, a Russian ambassador, is to be married to Katinka. Among the guests is Ivan Dimitri, who really loves her, and who would have won her, but for some intercepted letters. Then enters the dues ex machina in the person of Thaddeus T. Hopper, a wealthy American chap. He agrees with Ivan to abduct Katinka, on the day of her wedding, and does so. But when he arrives with her at Anzuli matters are badly complicated by the presence of Hopper's wife, who is something of a virago. Later Katinka becomes a singer in a Paris Cafe; and at last is united to Ivan.

Answers To The Moth Question

By Katharine Fisher

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Here are our answers to the questions thousands of women have asked us about moths, and how to defeat them. They are answers which have been thoroughly checked for accuracy.

Q. Do flying moths eat holes in wools?

A. No, it is the larvae or little white worms that hatch out of the eggs laid by the flying moths that do the damage. The eggs hatch in a few days in comfortably warm places, so wools left undisturbed where moths can get at them may soon be damaged.

Q. How can winter clothing be protected from moth damage during the summer?

A. It can be mothproofed, or fumigated or sprayed with an insect spray, and stored where moths cannot possibly reach it. Or it may be stored in a cedar chest. Good laundering and dry cleaning leave wools free from moths. If they are stored at once where moths cannot reach them, they will be protected against damage.

Q. How is clothing mothproofed?

A. By spraying it with a mothproofing solution which makes it distasteful and inedible to moths. First brush the clothing well, then spray it very thoroughly. Do not overlook a spot, and don't forget seams and folds, the under surface of collars, under buttons, and in pockets. Every thread must be covered. Blankets, sweaters and other easily washable wools can be immersed (or rinsed) in a solution of a mothproofing compound available for that purpose. Mothproofed clothing need not be stored out of the reach of moths. It may hang in a closet or lie in a drawer or on a shelf.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Q. How are wools fumigated?

A. By the use of a fumigant. Fumigants are usually either paradichlorobenzene or naphthalene, and are sold as such or under brand names. They give off fumes that kill moths at all stages, provided the fumes are strong enough and the moths are exposed to the fumes long enough. This can only be done well if plenty of fumigant is used and if the fumes are inclosed in a space that is comfortably warm and practically air-tight.

Q. Can wools be protected well by fumigating them in dresser drawers?

A. Not unless they are sprinkled liberally with the fumigant and at once wrapped closely and sealed in strong paper to keep the fumes from escaping. Wrapped in this way they may also be laid on shelves.

Q. Can wools be fumigated in closets?

A. Yes, if the closet adjoins a room that is comfortably warm. Clean the closet, then sprinkle the fumigant on shelves and floor, using a pound of fumigant for a small closet 2 x 2 x 7 (28 cubic ft.) or 2¼ lbs. for a closet 3 x 3 x 7 (63 cubic ft.) and so on. Now hang up the clothing to be fumigated and seal the closet door with gummed paper or the tape used by fumigators. Leave the clothes there until they are needed again.

Q. Can clothes be fumigated by hanging a fumigant in a closet that is in use?

A. No, as the fumes escape when the door is opened and so become too weak to kill the moths.

Q. Will moths attack clothing and other wools that have been thoroughly fumigated?

A. Yes, fumigation does not mothproof wools. In fumigating any wools, therefore, they must be left stored where moths cannot get at them until they are going to be used again.

Q. How can insect sprays protect wools from moth damage?

A. These sprays kill the moths, or their eggs or larvae when they come in contact with them. The spraying, like the fumigation, must be done very thoroughly. They do not mothproof the wool; therefore the spraying must be repeated regularly if moths are about, or the wools, after being sprayed, must be stored at once where moths can't get at them.

Third Site Being Considered For WPA Swimming Pool

Jaycees Are Staging Drive to Purchase Lot Beside High School

What may be the solution to the big problem of locating the swimming pool appeared near Thursday morning when a Junior Chamber of Commerce committee raised $191 in one hour and twenty minutes toward the purchase of a lot site.

The site now under consideration is a lot in the field to the east of the High School, fronting the road that leads from Tanner Avenue to the athletic field.

Efforts put forth by the committee on two previous occasions to locate the pool on the park space behind the armory and later on the South Grade grounds met with objections from nearby property owners. Being connected virtually with the school grounds, the latest site, to be purchased outright, will not be so close to residences.

The goal of the committee is $800 to pay for the lot, belonging to Mrs. Louis Ellen Sutton.

After exhausting all other possibilities, the Jaycee committee found as the only alternative that they might buy a lot for it if the funds could be raised. One-fourth of the goal was secured from part of the local business men in the Thursday morning drive.

Hal Lynch, Clayton architect, is going ahead with plans for the pool, WPA approved project to cost $30,000. The $10,000 sponsor's share will come from $5000 in bonds already voted and from donations of civic clubs and individuals. Proceeds from a small swimming fee will enable the pool custodians, a Jaycee group, to repay donors.

Already school swimming classes have been discussed in connection with building the pool by the High School.

The Jaycee committee will be able to tell after continuing the drive if sufficient funds can be collected to buy the lot, 175 by 200 feet.

Letting LaForge Wiring Contracts

Contracts were to be let Thursday at the La Forge project for the wiring preparatory to the incoming Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi County Co-operative line.

Separate bids were asked for wiring the cotton gin, for 33 homes already partially wired, and for 62 unwired homes. The contracts were to be let at the office of Hans Baasch, project director. The co-operative store and office already have been wired.

Mrs. Z. E. McAmis and son, Eddie, left Monday morning for Athens, Tenn. to visit relatives for several weeks.

Idea to Pay Garden Bills

P.-T. A. Plans Chain Food Basket; Canning Of Kiddies' Food Begun

The executive committee of the P.-T. A. met at the home of the president, Mrs. C. R. Auten, Wednesday evening and made plans to circulate a Friendly Food Basket among the members of the P.-T. A. to raise funds to pay for the seed used in the planting of the P.-T. A. garden and for the expenses involved in the canning project.

A list of names of persons interested in the project was prepared and placed in a basket, together with a small bank. The basket is started with one of the members who prepares a dish, places it in the basket and delivers it to one of the ladies whose name appears on the list. The recipient of the dish estimates the worth of the dish and places the money in the small bank, and thus the basket proceeds among members and friends of the organization.

According to a report from the chairman on the garden project, the garden is well under way, with a goodly supply of potatoes, onions, carrots, mustard, spinach, green beans, black-eyed peas, cabbage and 3000 tomato plants. They are now ready to plant corn. Already the four persons working in the canning room in the P.-T. A. kitchen at the south grade school have canned 130 quarts of mustard and spinach and 243 quarts of green beans.

The cabbage is ready to be made into kraut, the carrots, lima beans and tomatoes will be canned and the potatoes and onions will be stored. This food is to be used in the organization's lunchroom at the grade school during the next term of school.

District Has 4, Sikeston Has 2 Service Nominees

Four appointees of Congress Orville Zimmerman to United States service schools either have left or are preparing to leave for the schools, in order to report for physical examinations prior to their entrance. David Lumsden Dies Suddenly

Well-Known Rural Mail Carrier Passes Away At St. Louis Hospital

Friends of David Lumsden, longtime rural mail carrier out of Sikeston, were shocked to learn of his sudden death late Thursday morning at the Lutheran Hospital in St. Louis.

Mr. Lumsden, with his wife, had driven Tuesday to St. Louis to undergo an operation. He had not been in failing health, although he underwent an examination at the hospital two weeks ago because he was losing weight. The operation was not expected to be dangerous, but Wednesday evening a call from St. Louis to the children notified them that Mr. Lumsden was not expected to live.

The children, who were at his bedside, were Mrs. C. C. Reed, of Cooter, Orville Lumsden, David, Jr., and Miss Evelyn Shirley, whom the Lumsdens reared from childhood. Mr. Reed and Mrs. Orville Lumsden also went to St. Louis.

Mr. Lumsden was born in Illinois. For 21 years he carried mail on Rural Route 2 northeast of Sikeston through Blodgett and Miner Switch. He lived at 113 Cresap.

He was the inventor of the Faultless automatic water heater. His postal duties prevented his exploiting the patent, but Orville Lumsden is engaged in this business.

He also leaves three brothers, Charles Lumsden of Matthews, Hugh Lumsden of Union City, Tenn., and Herbert Lumsden in Illinois, and a married sister in Michigan.

Arrangements were made by the Albritton Funeral Home to transfer the body to Sikeston. Funeral plans had not been made Thursday.

Mrs. Mollie Harper, who has been seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Vogelsang in Cape Girardeau, spent from Sunday to Tuesday in Sikeston and has returned to Cape Girardeau for further treatment.

GAME DUCK DIET INCLUDES MANY PLANTS AND ANIMALS

Game ducks in the United States and Canada eat more than 200 kinds of plants and animals, according to scientists of the Bureau of Biological Survey. The scientists examined 8,000 stomachs of 18 game duck species so that conservationists and sportsmen may know what food are important. They found that 69 per cent of the food of these birds is plant material and 31 per cent is animal.

The game duck's diet includes sago pondweed, which is probably the most important single waterfowl plant on the continent, and flowering plant in the world, watermeal, the smallest known which measures only about one thirty-second of an inch in diameter.

Snails and insects head the list of animal foods, each forming about eight and a half per cent by volume of the total consumed.

The only pure sulphur mine in the world is on the strange island of Saba, lying south of the Virgin Islands. Saba is a volcanic cone rising from the sea, Eight hundred steps lead up from the beach to the town, curiously called "The Bottom," and people by an isolated community of thrifty Dutch, who construct seaworthy sloops inside the crater and lower them over the rocks to the sea.

Glowworms, which are luminscent beetles, cover the roof of the Glowworm Grotto in New Zealand. The millions of these tiny insects produce a fantastic blue light. They also drop down luminous, sticky strands to catch their insect prey.

The Atlantic Ocean off the Bahama Banks is often less than thirty feet deep and the unusual transparency of the water reveals many sea denizens. About 100 miles north of Puerto Rico is Nares Deep, the deepest known spot—27,972 feet.

NO one of the forty-eight states in the Union is entirely free of aliens—even those states hundreds of miles from any port of entry to the United States. Graphically illustrated above is the alien problem of the United States—a problem that is admittedly one of the major problems to be faced in the nation's fight for democracy.

The figures above give the number of white aliens, 21 or over, according to the 1930 census. They are in effect the total number of aliens eligible for citizenship in each of the states. A long-term attack on this vital problem was recently inaugurated by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, through its 1,500 subordinate lodges in cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

In most of these lodges, preliminary and first steps have already been taken to set the campaign in motion. The Elks campaign is based on a four-point program. It calls for a survey of the nation's aliens; a campaign to sell aliens on Americanism and American citizenship; instruction for citizenship; and an active part by the Elks in seeing that the aliens do acquire citizenship.

In each lodge there is, or will be set up a permanent naturalization committee. This committee not only guides Elks activities in naturalization, but seeks to make these activities community-wide. Such a community-wide effort is a forward step for democracy, Dr. Edward J. McCormick, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, believes.

AGENCIES OFFER FREE SANITARY PRIVIES

Letters are being sent from Farm Security offices in this section to rural landowners requesting permission to build sanitary privies on their land as part of the rural sanitation program. All that is asked of the owner is that he supply the necessary easements to permit workers to carry on construction on the land.

MISSISSIPPI COUNTY JUDGE PASSES AWAY

Hudson D. Sutherland, serving his second term as a member of the Mississippi County Court, died of a heart ailment at St. Mary's Hospital, Cairo, Ill., Sunday morning after becoming ill Saturday. Born at Farmington, he was for many years a Mississippi County landowner and lived at Charleston. For about 40 years he served on the board of education there. Two sons and three daughters survive. Rites were held Tuesday.

HOME OWNERS FORUM

By ABNER GORDON

PROTECTION should be provided against destructive termites by proper insulation at time of building

A strip of metal—copper, copper iron alloy or similar material—should be installed between the foundation and the wood construction. The strip should be bent down and out to form a drip. This prevents entrance of the pests at the most vulnerable point.

Metal frames are advisable for basement windows to make protection complete. If wood frames are essential, application of a durable exterior paint will afford some protection.

Q.—Suggest method and formula for painting new galvanized iron. A.—Since surface conditions make paint adhesion difficult, brush thoroughly with solution four ounces copper sulfate, copper chloride or copper acetate dissolved in gallon of water.

This plates out in thin deposit, roughening surface so paint will stick When surface is dry, brush lightly and rinse with water, after which apply paint.

Or better yet allow metal to weather several months until surface has roughened sufficiently to receive paint.

Experience recommends paint composed of 12 parts soft paste red lead 10 parts raw linseed oil, one part turpentine, one part liquid drier, because of its great adhesive and rust inhibiting qualities.

Q.—How can we get rid of earthworms without killing our grass? A.—Apply arsenate of lead in proportion of 5 pounds to each 1,000 sq. ft. of lawn. May be mixed with water and sprayed on with watering can, or mixed with dry sand and applied in like manner.

(The Home Owners Forum of the Home Service Bureau will be glad to help you solve home maintenance problems relating to plumbing, painting, etc. Write care of this paper.)

K. C. THUG BEGINS THREE-YEAR TERM

Jefferson City, June 19.—Charles Gargotta, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of assault with intent to kill Sheriff Thomas B. Bash of Jackson County nearly six years ago, was dressed in the Missouri Penitentiary this afternoon to serve his three-year sentence. Gargotta was not assigned immediately to any specific work.

The first indictment against Garotta dragged through 27 terms of courts before it was dismissed last winter at the request of W. W. Graves Jr., County Prosecutor. The dismissal brought a blast from Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, and Gargotta was reindicted.

The same grand jury also indicted Graves for neglect of official duty. His trial is set for August.

MATTHEWS TO STATE POST

James E. Matthews will go from his position as head of the penal department to a job in the State Highway Department at Jefferson City, a grapevine report from the state capitol says.

The gossip says that when Gov. Stark failed to send Matthews' name to the Senate for confirmation, showing that he would be ousted, a cry from civic workers through the state went up against a return of political spoilsism. It also has been said that a group of senators might use the incident as an excuse for showing their personal feelings against some of the appointments to be approved and the matter has been watched closely for the concluding chapter.

"An arangement has been made to take care of Matthews in the Highway Department so he will be back in his favored work and so he won't have to move his family away from Jefferson City," a report said, but it was not intimated who was responsible for the new arrangement.

The general feeling in Jefferson City seems to be that Matthews was ousted on the insistence of certain political leaders of Scott County. An authority that is usually correct says that no quarters will be shown anyone in Scott County who was active for Judge Billings and while Jimmy Matthews was not known to have taken any part whatever in that contest, he is charged with close friendship for some leaders who stood out for Billings.

Gov. Stark is known to have had a high regard for Matthews and showed confidence in his direction of the penal work. This is what caused so much surprise when his name was not sent to the Senate. Since then, certain sources say, it has been found that the pressure from a group of district leaders, headed by a few from Scott County, demanded his removal and the governor finally capitulated.

It has also been whispered that the group who succeeded in eliminating Matthews tried their best to substitute another Scott County man of much experience, but Gov. Stark didn't seem to be interested.—Cape Missourian.

The Library

By Miss Blair Law

One of our patrons put our Webster's New International Dictionary to a very profitable use last week. He won a bet of $50 on the pronunciation of the word, wound. It may be pronounced in either of two ways.

We hope to have a good attendance at our first story hour for all children between the ages of 5 and 10. It will be held in the Library auditorium, June 24th at 9 a. m.

We wish to thank the individual or organization for sending us "The Messenger of the Sacred Heart;' a magazine of the Catholic faith.

In recent years there have been a number of very interesting books written both by and about doctors. This Library has its quota of such books. Some of the titles are as follows: Fiction — "Young Dr. Galahad", Seifert; "Dr. Addams", Fineman; "Doctor Remembers", Young; "The Citadel", Cronin; "Dr. Norton's Wife", Walker; "The Doctor", Rinehart. Non-Fiction—"Devils, Drugs and Doctors," Haggard; "The Lame, the Halt and the Blind", Haggard; "Triumph Over Pain", Fulop-Miller; "An American Doctor's Odyssey", Heiser; "You're the Doctor", Heiser.

Why Many Fail To Get Well

Some people believe that herbs are the means of attaining health; others hunt for health in a spoon full of liquid, or special diets, baths, climate, mental attitude and hundreds of other means. So it is natural to wonder just what constitutes health. A famous authority has stated that health is the result of normal function of all body organs and tissues. It is reasonable then to believe that a number of necessary things enter into the problem of maintaining the balance of function—fresh air and sunshine, good food, sufficient sleep, exercise, a perfect co-ordination of function between organs and tissues, etc. It is the function of co-ordination that depends upon the nervous system. Any structural change of the body that interferes with the flow of nerve energy will change the "timing" of organic functions, and ill health is the result. Chiropractors have spent almost half a century studying this particular phase of "disease-cause" and find that it plays an important part in almost every sickness. To neglect the nervous system in regaining health is to overlook one of the most important factors to normal function. And it is to this reason, we believe, that there is so much chronic sickness today.

COULD THIS HAVE BEEN SIKESTON

Missouri certainly has some very funny liquor laws. I went to a liquor store in a small Missouri town and asked for a drink of whisky. They couldn't sell me a drink, but they could sell me a half-pint. I could buy it, but I couldn't drink it or open it there. I could drink it in my room if I had one, or in an alley if the law didn't see me.

So I asked for a bottle of beer. They couldn't sell me one bottle, but they could sell me three. I couldn't open them there, but I could take them out cold. I bought three bottles. They were cold and had to be drunk before they got warm, so I drank all three in my car.

When I started to drive, I found that I was too drunk to drive a car and had to go onto a side road to sleep it off.

What I can't understand is why men claiming to be lawmakers would make such idiotic laws. If a person wants a drink of whisky, he wants only a drink, not a half-pint. If he wants beer, he doesn't want to have to buy enough to make him dizzy.—John Hall, Cairo, Ill.

GOOD OLD SUMMERTIME

Are You Enjoying the Summer Weather? Well Folk Enjoy the Summer But It Is Hard on Those Who Do Not Feel Tip Top.

Most folks enjoy traveling and vacationing during the Summer but oh! how hard it is on the people who are sick. If you feel lazy and no account all the time, you do not want to travel or do anything that takes any pep at all—your energy is all gone and sometimes you feel you are in hard luck because the other fellow is having a good time and you feel so rotten.

MALARIA AND BILIOUSNESS THE CAUSE OF THAT NO ACCOUNT FEELING

Physicians of the South learned many years ago that nine out of ten cases of illness in this Southern climate was caused by two diseases — Malaria and Biliousness. They agree that if you will keep your system clean and pure by avoiding Constipation and Biliousness, and keep out the Malaria Germs, the chances are ten to one you will feel well and be a well man or woman.

NASH'S TONIC FOR MALARIA—BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

So take stock of yourself. If you have the symptoms of Malaria and Biliousness don't wait until you have chills and fevers but get busy with Nash's Tonic today. A great many people make the mistake of not heeding Nature's warnings but feel badly for many weeks before they begin treatment. When you begin to feel lazy and drowsy—when you have poor digestion and stomach disorders—when you feel stretchy and have slight headache and back ache. Then is the time to begin treatments. Nature warns you with these symptoms in plenty of time if you will only pay attention to the warnings.

NASH SAYS YOU CAN'T LOSE ON HIS PROPOSITION

Thousands of families are now keeping well and full of energy with Nash's C. & L. Tonic. Mr. Nash, the drug manufacturer, says if you will purchase one 50c bottle of Nash's Tonic and take for one week he will guarantee you will feel lots better. IF YOU DON'T YOUR MONEY WILL BE CHEERFULLY REFUNDED WITHOUT QUESTION. Sikeston Druggists say that Nash's is by far their best selling tonic and gives universal satisfaction.

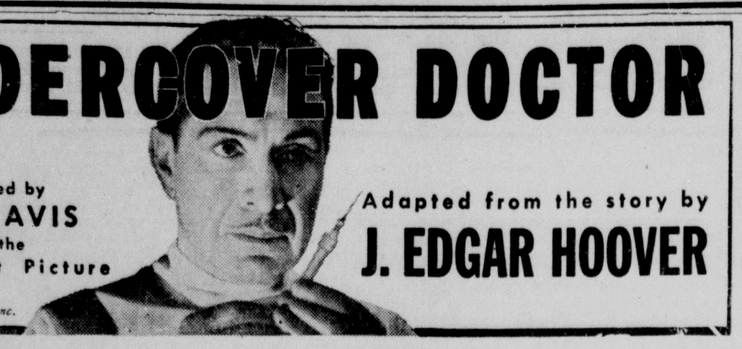
UNDERCOVER DOCTOR



Serialized by J. R. TRAVIS from the Paramount Picture

Adapted from the story by J. EDGAR HOOVER

Copyright 1939 by Paramount Pictures Inc.

CHAPTER FOUR SYNOPSIS:

Dr. Bart Morgan, brilliant young surgeon addicted to liquor, becomes a "gangland doctor" when he does not achieve success in legal practice. Bank bandits headed by Eddie Krator, Public Enemy No. 1, are his best customers. Morgan gets a call from Krator to come to the Ace Inn. Krator is gone when he arrives. On the return trip to town he finds Bob Anders, a G-Man, seriously wounded in a gasoline station. He operates and saves Anders' life. When Krator hears about Anders, he plans to kill Bart.

CHAPTER V

BART MORGAN faced Eddie Krator calmly. When he spoke, his voice was steady.

"Before we start on our little boat ride, gentlemen," he said, "there's something you should know. In case I were to fall overboard—purely by accident, of course—it might prove very embarrassing to all of you." He smiled coolly at them. "My lawyer has a sealed envelope upon which is written: 'To be opened after my death.' In that envelope is a paper and on that paper is written: 'In the event that I disappear or am found murdered, arrest Eddie Krator, Johnny Franklin, Spats Edwards and Elmer Porter.'"

Bart stopped and studied the angry faces of the men. He chuckled.

"Dear old Uncle Elmer," he continued. "Then there follows a list containing the details of every crime you've committed and a list of all your hideouts, including Eddie's favorite fishing shack. And also your fingerprints, which I have been able to pick up from time to time."

Krator and Franklin digested this in sullen silence. Bart broke it.

"Well, gentlemen, let's get started on our little boat trip. The weather is delightful. The lake should be like glass." He arose and started for the door. Krator raised his gun. Franklin grabbed Eddie's arm and forced it down. "Not now, Eddie," he whispered. "Not now."

Morgan closed the door behind him.

Nothing further happened for several weeks. When Bob Anders was safely out of danger, Margaret resigned from the hospital staff at Bart's insistence, and joined him as his office nurse. She wouldn't admit it to herself but she wanted to be near Bart. He needed her, she told herself.

One morning as Bart entered his office he found Elmer Porter in the waiting room. The latter followed Bart into his private office.

"Can we be heard in here?" Porter asked cautiously. Bart assured him they could not. "I've been trying to get you on the phone for weeks," Porter went on. "Why didn't you answer?"

"I told Krator I was through and I meant it."

Porter was silent for a moment. "Suppose Courtney Weld were to learn that his daughter is going to marry a criminal doctor?" he suggested softly at last.

"Since we're just supposing," Bart snapped, "suppose the police found out that Elmer Porter, Respectable Citizen No. 1 isn't so respectable."

"You're being foolish, Morgan. You can't walk out on us."

"I'm not taking any more chances. Get someone else."

"That takes time," Porter pointed out. "And we need a doctor to stand by, today!"

"No!"

"Unless you date me up for dinner tonight," Bob said, "I'm liable to tear up the place."

"'No' is a word to be used only after mature deliberation," Porter argued. "I wouldn't say that you're being impetuous."

"Let me worry about that," Bart said shortly and led the way to the waiting room. Margaret was seated at her desk. For her benefit, Bart added:

"Follow my advice, Mr. Porter. Stay away from doctors and your health will be perfect."

"Perhaps, Doctor, perhaps," Porter replied, fully understanding Bart's double meaning. As Porter opened the outer door, Bob Anders entered. The two collided slightly and Anders stared at the older man.

"I'm sorry," Bob said. Porter grunted angrily and continued on his way.

As Morgan turned back into his private office, Margaret followed him. Bart crossed to a liquor cabinet and poured down a stiff drink. Feeling her accusing eyes, Bart turned and faced the girl.

"I know what you're going to say," he flared. "You had to cancel a lot of appointments. Well, I was busy." He seized the phone and dialed a number.

"Hello, Easton?" Bart's voice was excited. "This is Morgan. How do I stand now?" Margaret watched the worried expression on his face deepen. "Down five points since I left?" Morgan continued.

The broker's voice was plainly audible to both of them. "Sorry, Bart, but I can't carry you. You're into me now for twenty-five thousand and I've got to have it."

"Hold the wire," Morgan said as he turned to Margaret. "How much is due in outstanding accounts?"

"About ten thousand dollars," she answered.

Bart turned back to the telephone. "I can raise about ten thousand in a few days." He listened for a moment. "But I can't get it all by tomorrow," he insisted.

"And I can't wait any longer," the broker was equally positive. "If you haven't got it in the morning, I'll have to sell you out when the market opens. Sorry, Bart. Goodbye."

Bart put down the phone and picked up the bottle. Margaret seized his arm. "You can face it a lot better without that," she said angrily.

Bart pushed her away. "I'm in no mood for lectures," he said.

The sound of the door chimes halted him. Out in the waiting room, Bob Anders had opened and closed the outer door to attract attention. Margaret hurried out.

"Hello," Bob said, eyeing her appreciatively.

Margaret smiled. "And hello to you."

"Tell me, why did you up and vanish one day while I was taking a snooze?" Bob demanded. "Was that any way to treat a fellow when he was in a hospital?"

"I quit my job and came here to work with Dr. Morgan," the girl explained. "I . . . I . . . was going to say goodbye to you but you looked so comfortable and happy. . . ."

"You want to know why?" Bob cut in. "I was dreaming that you and I punting on the Thames—just the two of us. No, that wasn't it. We were throwing crumbs to our pet sea gulls, the ones on our own desert island."

Margaret laughed. "So. We had an island. I didn't know."

"That's why I dropped around—to tell you about it." He grinned at her. "You think I'm crazy, don't you?"

"Well, not violently so."

"Unless you let me date you up for dinner and a show tonight, I'm liable to tear up the place."

"We have a nice padded cell, Mr. Anders."

"Then you're quite safe, Miss Hopkins. What time did you say I should call for you?"

"I didn't say," Margaret smiled.

ELECTRIC RANGE HAS NEW ECONOMY UNIT IN THRIFTO-MATIC SWITCH

Nowhere in the home is the time element more important than in the kitchen as so many homemakers know today. In appreciation of this fact, the new 1939 Frigidaire electric range presents to its public the recently developed Thermizer with the "Thrifto-Matic" switch, an automatic device which reduces cooking to a mere matter of turning a dial.

"The new Thrifto-Matic switch", according to F. D. Lair, local Frigidaire dealer, "is believed by Frigidaire engineers to be one of the greatest contributions ever made to the convenience of electric cooking. Heretofore, a special trip to the range was necessary to change the Thermizer from high heat to low. The Thrifto-Matic, however, eliminates this time waste by automatically changing heats at a time designated by the initial placement of the switch when cooking is begun. A clock mechanism slowly turns the handle so that when the designated time has elapsed the heat has changed from high to low without a moment's attention from anyone."

No housewife will want to overlook such a feature which provides safe and correct temperature cooking with a minimum of effort. There is no longer any need for burned food which was forgotten when the phone rang or somebody came to the door.

"In addition to time economy", says Mr. Lair, "this new device is friendly to the monthly budget by eliminating unnecessary electricity consumtion and forestalling the possibility of cooking food to replace that which was burned. Another step forward has been taken towards the banishment of drudgery in cooking with the advent of Frigidaire's new Thrifto-Matic, and hours spent in the kitchen can now be greatly reduced and made more pleasant."

Cheese Dishes for Economy

Many cheese dishes are substantial enough to serve as meat substitutes. They are varied in character and flavor and hence may be used frequently without monotony.

CHEESE PUFFIT

1 cup left-over cooked ham
1 teaspoon minced onion.
2 tablespoon butter
2 ½-inch slices soft bread
2 eggs, separated
½ lb. fresh yellow cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 1/3 cups hot milk
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Put ham and onion through grinder. Pan-fry genlty 3 minutes with butter. Arrange in a layer in a deep baking dish rubbed with fat. Break bread into small pieces. Sliver cheese. Combine bread, cheese, beaten egg yolks and heated milk. Add salt and paprika. Let stand 20 minutes. Add parsley. Then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baking dish containing ham. Bake in a slow oven 45 minutes.

CHEESE BISCUITS

2 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon shortening
½ cup grated cheese
¾ cup milk

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with a knife. Add cheese, then milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in a quick oven 10 to 15 minutes.

CHEESE RAMEKINS

Cook in a saucepan until smooth 4 tablespoons grated bread, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 2 tablespoons butter and pepper and salt to taste. Add yolks, then whites of 3 eggs. Grease ramekins and fill ¾ full and bake 6 minutes. Serve at once.

FROZEN CHEESE TARTS

Mix 1 pound unsalted butter, 1 pound cottage cheese and ½ teaspoon salt. Set in a refrigerator over night. Roll out thin on a floured board, cut in 2-inch squares, fill with sliced peaches, preserved figs or jam. Pinch the four corners together, place on a buttered tin and bake in a moderate oven until light brown.

Uses for Sour Cream

Sour cream as an ingredient of fine cookery is too apt to be overlooked, and this is a pity, for it imparts a flavor and richness to many dishes that is unsurpassed. The following dishes are but a few of many that utilize sour cream to great advantage.

CHEESE TORTE

1 pkg. zwieback
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Roll the zwieback to fine crumbs. Add the butter and sugar and line a spring form, pressing the crumbs firmly about the bottom and sides. Fll with a custard filling and bake in a slow oven.

CUSTARD FILLING

1 cup sugar
1 cup soured cream
1 lb. cottage cheese
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespon flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs

Put cheese through a sieve, cream with sugar, flour and salt. Add beaten yolks, soured cream and vanilla. Mix well and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into the zwieback-lined pan.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
3 squares bitter chocolate
½ cup soured cream
½ cup butter
¾ cup hot water
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 heaping teaspoon soda

Dissolve chocolate in hot water. Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten egg yolks. Dissolve soda in a little milk and thin the cream. Combine all mixtures and let stand for 3 minutes before mixing in the sifted flour. Bake in a shallow pan in moderate oven 40 minutes.

BOILED FISH

1 silver trout
1 carrot
1 onion
1 quart water
3 stalks celery
Salt and pepper
½ pint soured cream

Slice fish, bring water with diced vegetables to a boil, add fish, salted to taste. Boil 30 minutes. Remove fish to platters. Strain liquid in a bowl, add soured cream and pour over the fish.

Adolf Hitler never got beyond grammer school; and he never held a public office of importance until he was made Chancellor of Germany when the Nazis came to power.

In her early day in New York, before she had made any impression on the editors, Fanny Hurst, the author, got a job as a salesgirl in a department store, but only stayed a week at it. The noveltist says: "Four and one-quarter yards of ribbon at seven and one-half cents a yard proved my Waterloo there, and my resignation at the end of the week was not entirely voluntary."

DIONNE QUINS PUT ON DIET TO REDUCE BULGING WAISTLINES

Callander, Ontario, June 19.—The Dionne quintuplets were put on a diet today to scale down their bulging waistlines. The girls were described as "pudgy" by one of their nurses, and their physician, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, decided that five slim sisters were better than five fat ones.

Dr. Dafoe said the quins would have to quit eating potatoes and other starchy foods. He said he tried "not to bother" when the girls started getting fat, but had to call a halt when buttons began popping off.

BRIEF QUAKE ROCKS SOUTHERN ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Ark., June 19.—South Arkansas, from Little Rock to the Louisiana line, was shaken sharply today by a brief earthquake. No damage was reported from the tremor, which lasted only a few seconds.

St. Louis University's seismograph recorded the quake for about five minutes, beginning at 3:44.23 p. m.

The tremor was also felt at Hope and Texarkana, southwest from Arkadelphia to the Texas line. The Shreveport, La., Times received several telephone calls from residents who said they felt the earth movement.

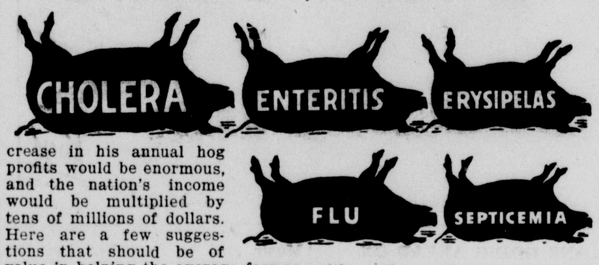
WHY HOGS DIE; THE FIVE GREAT CAUSES OF SWINE LOSSES

Few swine raisers realize that the major share of all hog losses in this country is due to but five causes—hog cholera, enteritis, influenza or pneumonia, parasites, hemorrhagic septicemia, and erysipelas.

If the farmer could keep just these five out of his herd, the increase in his annual hog profits would be enormous, and the nation's income would be multiplied by tens of millions of dollars. Here are a few suggestions that should be of value in helping the average farmer to guard his herd against these five destroyers:



Hog Cholera—Cannot be cured. The only safeguard is vaccination before an outbreak occurs. The best time to vaccinate is around weaning time, and it is best to have the work done only by a veterinarian. Symptoms of cholera—sluggishness, fever, partial paralysis, tendency of hogs to pile up.

Enteritis—A filth-borne disease, picked up in old, infected hog lots. Best preventive is to farrow and rear pigs on clean pasture, away from old lots. Symptoms—loss of weight, diarrhoea, weakness. At first signs, call a veterinarian.

Hemorrhagic Septicemia, or swine plague—Very difficult to distinguish from hog cholera, and frequently one disease is complicated with the other. Symptoms similar to cholera, including fever, loss of appetite, and weakness. Prompt veterinary treatment is urgent, and hogs should be put into clean quarters, with good ventilation, and given a careful diet.

Influenza, or Swine Flu—Very contagious. Pigs run high temperatures, are weak, show eye inflammation, frequently breathe with difficulty. Keep hogs in warm, dry quarters, out of draughts. Give plenty of water, but reduce rations.

Virulent Erysipelas—Symptoms, like cholera, include fever, lack of appetite, sometimes partial prostration. Immediate diagnosis by a veterinarian is important. Great care should be used in handling hogs, because the disease can be transmitted to man.

Approve 3 Bills, Carrys, $20,447,123

Jefferson City, June 20.—The House approved with no debate and only nominal opposition today conference reports on three major appropriations bills carrying $20,447,123 from general revenue.

The measures provide for the state's educational institutions, the eleemosynary institutions, and the elective officials, courts and some executive departments. The Senate must approve the reports before they finally go to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

The eleemosynary bill as finally rewritten in conference allots $4,741,943, or $7709 more than it carried when the House first passed it. The educational measure appropriates $8,929,892, a decrease of $72,367 from the original. The civil list bill carires $6,775,488, or $171,966 less than the original.

House Appropriations Chairman John D. Taylor (Dem.), Keytesville told the House its conferees strove to restore Senate reductions in the education bill "but they overpowered us."

"They took $100,000 off the salary allotment for the State University, $10,000 from each teachers' college, and $100,000 from the university's crippled children program. Taylor explained.

"All of our arguments against these cuts were in vain. Sometimes I'm inclined to think the Missouri Senate is in favor of ignorance."

Will Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson will quietly observe their 50th wedding anniversary this Friday, June 23, at their home on South Ranney. Their son, James Johnson, and his family, Mrs. Johnson and two children, Mary Ann and Jimmy, will be with them for that event.

On June 23, 1889, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married by the Rev. R. F. Chew at the old Methodist parsonage then located on Front Street.

Mr. Johnson was the first manager of Mill "B" for the Scott County Milling company, taking charge of the mill when it was first built. He continued in the employ of the Company for 43 years, ill health forcing him to retire from the work.

Mrs. Johnson came to Sikeston when a small child from her birthplace near Hickman, Ky., and Mr. Johnson is a native of Eldorado, Ill.

Legislature to Adjourn Saturday

Jefferson City, June 19.—A resolution to adjourn the sixtieth General Assembly sine die at noon Saturday and thus bring to an end the longest legislative session in the history of Missouri, was adopted today by the House and the Senate. Members of the Assembly have been receiving only $1 a day since May 4. The proposal was first approved by the House and then by the Senate. Senator Frank P. Briggs, the majority floor leader, told the Senate it probably would not be possible to hold a quorum of the House in Jefferson City this week, unless the Senate acted favorably on the resolution.

If the Legislature has not concluded its business by the hour specified in the resolution, the clocks in the House and Senate chambers will be stopped and the proceedings will continue until pending matters are disposed of. Regardless of how long beyond Saturday noon the Legislature works, the records will show that it adjourned sine die at that hour.

Saturday will be the one hundred and seventy-second calendar day of the present session. The 1937 Legislature adjourned sine die June 8 and the 1931 session adjourned June 15, but practically the last 30 days of that session were devoted to the impeachment proceedings brought against State Treasurer Larry Brunk.

Tasty Meals Aid Summer Appetites

In the good old summertime, appetites may not be quite so keen as they are during the winter and perhaps our food requirements aren't exactly the same. Nevertheless we do not nourishing foods at all seasons of the year and certainly we need them during these days of outdoor activity. We need a liberal supply of protein, the building food, of which meat is a good source of supply. Vegetables and fresh fruits appeal to us at this time of year, and we should make full use of them. But the wise homemaker keeps her menus well balanced during the summer as well as in the other seasons of the year.

Here are a series of tempting meals, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist, all well suited to this season and containing all the food elements required for good health. They are all easily prepared, which is also an advantage.

Soup for Luncheon

A delicious soup served piping hot makes an adequate and satisfying luncheon, particularly when served with toasted bread or rolls.

ONION SOUP

6 cups beef or chicken stock or bouillon cubes dissolved in 6 cups water
Salt to taste
¾ lb. onions, sliced
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup grated cheese
Brown onions slightly in butter. Stir in stock and add salt. Simmer until onions are tender. Butter toast and sprinkle with cheese. Just before serving pour soup into individual dishes and top each serving with toast and set in a hot oven long enough to melt cheese and brown lightly.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

½ can or pint of tomatoes
¼ teaspoon soda
1 slice onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoon butter
1 quart milk

Cook the onion with the milk. Heat butter, add flour and seasoning, 2/3 cup hot milk, then the rest gradually. Heat the strained tomatoes, add the soda and when the bubbling stops add the tomato to the white sauce.

MULLAGATAWNY SOUP

1 tablespoon beef drippings
1 large onion
2 quarts stock
2 tablespoons chopped carrot
3 tablespon chopped celery
½ lemon
2 cloves
2 peppercorns
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon boiled rice
½ cup cooked diced chicken or veal

Slice the onion and fry it brown in the drippings. Put it in the stock with carrot, celery, lemon juice, cloves and peppercorns. Mix the curry powder and salt to a smooth paste with a little water and add that also. Simmer one hour, strain and cool. Remove the fat, add the meat and rice. Reheat and serve.

Simple Summer Desserts

Warm weather desserts should be light and piquant. And they need not involve much labor in preparation, for these are days to be out-of-doors.

CORNSTARCH PUDDING

3 cups scalded milk
6 level tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup cold milk
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the cornstarch with the cold milk and stir the scalded milk slowly into this mixture and stir over hot water until the mixture thickens. Beat the eggs slightly; add sugar and salt; pour over them the cornstarch mixture and cook one minute longer. Serve cold with cream and sugar.

COCONUT TAPIOCA

4 tablespoons tapioca
1 quart milk
Yolks 3 eggs
1/3 cup shredded coconut
2/3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Whites of 3 eggs
3 tablespoons sugar

Soak the tapioca in water over night; drain and add the milk. Bring slowly to the boiling point and stir in the yolks of the eggs beaten with the sugar. Cook until the custard thickens, stirring all the time. Remove from the fire and add the coconut and vanilla. Make a meringue of the whites of eggs and sugar and pile lightly over the custard and set in the oven until delicately brown.

COFFEE JELLY

Cooks' Council

SPICY STARTER

Lots of folks nowadays favor the appetizer salad as the first course of a festive menu in place of canapés and cocktails. This is a small, high-flavored salad—a piquant pick-up to tantalize the taste buds and whet the appetite for the meal to follow. A crisp cool lettuce leaf, for instance, trimmed with a lacing of spiced apple circlets, then topped with a fresh fruit filling makes a tasty tidbit for a starter. Salads of this sort should be served hors d'oeuvres fashion at the table—arranged on salad plates, then placed on service plates before the guests are seated. Be sure to put a small salad fork at the extreme left of the silverware for each cover when you serve this savory spiced apple salad:

APPLE RINGS

Core, then cut crosswise into very thin slices—
Large red apples.
Marinate in—
Horseradish French Dressing (below).
Line small salad plates with—
Curly endive.
Drain, then overlap three apple slices in center of plate.
Top each apple slice with a small mound of—
Mixed diced fruits, fresh or canned.

HORSERADISH FRENCH DRESSING

Soak—
1½ teaspoons evaporated horseradish
In—
4 teaspoons cold water 5 minutes.
Combine in flask—
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon paprika.
Add horseradish together with—
¼ cup pure cider, malt or tarragon vinegar
½ cup pure olive oil.

SNAPPY SAUCE

Here is a versatile horseradish sauce you can use in all sorts of ways—to snap up a pallid platter of cold cuts—inject a dash of zip in brown gravies—liven a cream sauce for broccoli or cauliflower—or tone up a temperate French dressing. It's easy and practical to make when you use the evaporated horseradish that comes bottled in granulated form. You see this dried horseradish retains all the savor and fine pungent flavor of a root grated fresh from your own garden and keeps indefinitely since the moisture has been removed. It surely saves a world of time and tears to get your horseradish in this form, and guarantees a fresh flavored sauce at a few moments' notice. Just mix with water, add a sharp infusion of distilled white vinegar and serve so:

HORSERADISH SAUCE

Soak—
2 tablespoons evaporated horseradish
10 minutes in—
2 tablespoons cold water.
Add, blending thoroughly—
2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt.

Use as desired on meats or in hot sauces.

SPAGHETTI, SOUTHERN STYLE

How would you like a snappy new way to serve spaghetti? Here it is, Creole style, from the land where food is famed for fine seasoning. Just take green pepper shreds, tiny button mushrooms, and onion smidgens and brown in butter. Then open up a tin of ready-to-serve spaghetti and spoon into the skillet to heat until the spaghetti sizzles and circles of steam spiral up from the skillet. Served with a green salad, hard rolls, fresh fruit, and coffee, this makes a truly continental supper dish:

CREOLE SPAGHETTI

Brown—
2 tablespoons chopped mushrooms
⅓ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
In—
2 tablespoons fat or bacon drippings.
Add—
1 medium (17 oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese.

Heat thoroughly.

A New Summer Tea Ring

At an informal summer tea, Orange Ring is a dainty quick bread to serve. It is made from a scone dough, which is a first cousin to the simple-to-make biscuit. Its special goodness is due to the Orange Sugar that is sprinkled over the dough before the ring is baked.

ORANGE RING

2 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk or orange juice
Orange Sugar

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Cut or rub in the shortening. Beat egg, add milk or orange juice and add all to dry ingredients. Blend with a fork until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll out into rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with Orange Sugar. Roll jelly roll fashion and cut into 1¼ inch slices. Place slices cut side down close together in a well-buttered ring mold. Bake in moderately hot oven (425°F.) 25 minutes. While hot frost with Orange Icing, made with confectioners' sugar and orange juice.

To make Orange Sugar, add grated rind of ½ orange to ½ cup sugar and mix thoroughly. Store in tightly covered jar.

NEW YORK POLICE GET PLEA TO FIND MAN CHINESE WIFE

New York, June 19.—The New York Police Department, which does not give advice to the lovelorn, despite the name of its high commissioner—Valentine—is considering an Oklahoman's request for aid in finding a pretty Chinese wife.

Dempster's Nudge Shoe Factory, 5-4

Dempster's blanked the Shoe Factory for six innings and cut short a home stretch rally in the seventh, winning 5-4 Monday night at the softball field.

It was a game in which outfielders on both sides starred in catching fly balls, and a game where both teams pulled themselves out of several holes with the bases clogged with runners. The Furniture team had 11 men left on bases and the Shoe Factory eight.

Curtis Barr, who pitched nearly all the game, broke the scoring ice in the first. He singled and three successive walks behind him forced in a run. In the next batting session Dempster's picked up two runs, when Wagner hit and Jones knocked a double, scoring on Barr's and Clark's singles. Jones walked in the sixth and stole home on a passed ball. In the seventh Clark hit into an error and tallied on Week's single.

Paul Crain led off the Shoe Makers' rally when he hit into an outfield error. Hill followed with a single, and Pitcher Sam Vinson cleared the bases with a far-reaching homerun near the third base line. Bartlett walked and Bennett's two-base blow scored the former. At this point Bob Dempster replaced Barr. Bennett managed to travel to third, but two men were thrown out at first and a strikeout checked the rally in midstream.

Barr yielded nine hits, and Vinson turned in eight.

Jack's Y in 12-9 Win Over Potashnick

Jack's led at first, saw the lead slip away in the fourth and came back in the fifth to hold the edge the rest of the trip, 12-9, over Potashnick Monday evening.

The total of 21 runs was made on 12 hits, and the error sheet registered 12 in all.

Four walks in the first were responsible for three Y runs. Potashnick countered with one run on three hits. In the third two hits and two errors added three more for the Y, but the ISCO retaliated in the fourth with eight runs, it 9-6. These were made on four hits, three of them two-baggers, and four miscues. On two lone hits the Y used four errors and a walk to gain six runs and retake the lead.

Fansler started for the Shoe Factory and Whitten went in on the mound in the third. Buck Carter went the route for the Y.

Delta CCC Boys Trim New Madrid

In a softball game featured by superb pitching on one side and erratic work in the field on the other, the negro boys of the Delta CCC Drainage Camp overwhelmed their white colleagues from the New Madrid Camp Sunday afternoon by a score of 18-1. The game was played at Delta before a large crowd of visitors and enjoyed perfect baseball weather. The next two games for the New Madrid Swamp Angels in the Southeast Missouri CCC Sub-district Softball league will be played Sunday in a triple-header at Poplar Bluff with the Poplar Bluff Ramblers and the Ellington Rams.

The blazing speed and bewildering delivery of Hoard, Delta hurler, baffled the Angels Sunday and limited them to three scattered hits. Hoard, hitting safely three times himself and doing a masterly job of directing the field play of his mates in addition to his hurling assignment, was easily the outstanding player in the game. Petey Carroll, of Lilbourn, got two of the Swamp Angels hits. Dale Tope, another Lilbourn product, snagged the only other hit off Hoard.

Miss Helen Vera Dudley returned last Friday night after a visit with relatives in Indianapolis and other points in Indiana.

Company K Repels Odd Fellows, 13-4

Four early runs by the Odd Fellows proved a short-lived lead, Company K gathering steam in later innings while Johnny Marshall, who came to the mound in the second, pitched no-hit ball. The final score was 13-4.

Odd Fellows manufactured five hits into four runs in the second, and with one out Marshall came to the mound. From that time the Lodge went hitless and scoreless, and three men got as far as second base. Beginning with the last batter in the second inning, Marshall struck out eight men in a row and got 12 whiffs altogether.

On nine hits in the third and fourth innings, with errors and walks sprinkled in, the National Guard made seven runs and also accounted for a run in the first and in the last innings.

Watson Mize allowed seven runs and eight hits in 4 2/3 innings, and F. Williams five for the remainder of the game. The Lodge touched Lufcy for five hits.

Red Miller, reigning king of batters in the city leagues, whacked two for two bases and got a single and a walk for a perfect evening. At this stage of the season he is batting .700 per cent.

Law Allows 2 Hits in Road Shutout

Highway's errorless ball polishing off Jimmy Law's two-hit pitching allowed two men of the North End Grocery team to get as far as second base Tuesday evening, and the American League champs strode on. 5-0.

The North End Grocery took over the Seven Up team Tuesday night, and Cline Ables continues as manager.

The two hits off Law's meteor were singles, made by Robert Lee in the second and Billy Simmons in the third.

Highway opened up batting barrage in the second. Two-base hits by Mathis, Bruce and Tandy, and a safety by Grey, along with two walks, accounted for four runs. The other runs came in the fifth, when Dace singled and used an error to score, and in the sixth, when McGill singled and was driven in by Aldridge's double.

Highway collected 11 hits, eight off Simmons and three off McClellan. North End made three errors.

The Standard will be glad to co-operate 100 per cent with The Herald to make the forthcoming Jubilee the biggest event of the sort ever held in any Southeast Missouri City regardless.

The Old Guard in both the Republican and Democratic parties can see nothing good in anything Mr. Roosevelt has accomplished, so to find out what the rank and file of both parties think, we recommend Mr. Hoover as the candidate for the Old Guard and Mr. Roosevelt as the candidate for the people. The result would be pitiful.

The Standard office was honored Wednesday morning with a visit from Rev. D. K. Foster, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. W. P. Robertson, and Mrs. Charles Dorroh, of Caruthersville, who were en route to Ironton to attend a regional denomination meeting. We were very glad to meet these ladies—and Rev. Foster.

Hardly a day passes but what we are appealed to to get some one reinstated on the WPA rolls, to hurry up the old age assistance, to write the Senators and Congressman to get some one a fat job of some sort. This is to advise all these worthy people that we have no influence at home nor abroad therefore would probably hurt than help if we should attempt these requests.

From remarks we hear of the bump the Greyhound bus gave to the car driven by young Lambert you can take with two grains of salt the two lines carried in Sikeston's second paper that "You can believe what you read in The Herald." Yes, it is the family paper. It takes the place of mail order catalogues in Chick Sales specials.

Clubhouse Workers to Paving Job

Golf Course Project Awaits Mill Work; Smaller Jobs Remain

During a work lull at the golf clubhouse, the WPA crew that has been doing the labor there has been shifted to the street paving operations on North Park Avenue and plumbing fixtures are being installed in the clubhouse.

The clubhouse work was tied up because of a delay in receiving mill work. Only the windows have arrived, according to Herb Daugherty, who has been foreman on the job. Doors are needed to close the building, and are expected by July 1, when it is believed crew operations can be resumed.

Mr. Daugherty said he hoped to close the building for a night prior to installing celotex on the walls, to lessen expansion and contraction within so that the insulation will fit better.

Because there is a limited amount of money in the sponsor's funds, the crew of 41 which left the clubhouse project will be replaced by a crew of 21 or 22 when work is resumed there, he said. All heavy concrete work is completed, requiring less manual labor. The only remaining concrete work will be the pouring of bases in rooms where hardwood flooring is not used. Inside casing work is about the only other important task remaining.

By going temporarily to the paving job, a WPA exemption was filed so that the number of non-certified workers could be decreased. Previously, 5 per cent of the workers—those certified for relief and rating a lower wage scale—were allowed in this bracket, the foreman said. Under the exemption 10 per cent may be certified workers, allowing the funds to go farther in payment for work.

It may take two more months to complete the clubhouse, Mr. Daugherty said, due to the lack of workmen specially skilled in finishing work.

Scott County Chooses Farm Bureau Board

Sixteen co-chairmen, two from each of the eight townships in Scott County, have been selected by the Farm Bureau Executive Board to assist Miss Ella Fikuart, home demonstration agent, and Leon M. Lane, county agent, to plan the 1940 Extension Program for Scott County, according to Carl Luper, president of the Scott County Farm Bureau.

These leaders, with the townships which they represent, are as follows: Mrs. Lem Buck, A. B. Greer, Commerce Township; Mrs. Louis Albrecht, John W. Heeb, Kelso Township; Thomas E. Chewning, Otto Diebold, Moreland Township; Mrs. Otto Bugg, Amos McMullin, Morley Township; Mrs. E. C. Graham, A. E. Davis, Sandywoods Township; Mrs. Chas. Diebold, R. C. Willett, Sylvania Township; Mrs. Ivie Lewis, J. J. Reiss, Richland Township; Mrs. Joe Stricker, Edwin F. Birk, Tywappity Township.

Since an extension program, to be of fullest value to the county, must be based upon problems of the people, these committeemen must first determine the problems affecting farming, home and living conditions, and the community; to do a thorough job each two chairmen have appointed eight committeemen, four men and four women in their township, to meet with them on the night of June 28 to designated places within each township. When the major problems for the township have been determined, the co-chairmen will meet with the Farm Bureau Executive Board, the Extension Club council and the agents and determine which problems will be worked on in 1940.

State Sales Tax Extended

Senate Votes to Have It Continued at Two Per Cent Through 1941

Jefferson City, June 20.—The Senate disposed of one imperative preadjournment task today by passing a bill to extend the state's 2 per cent sales tax until December 31, 1941.

Its passage was the Senate's only accomplishment, however, with the upper branch of the Legislature still showing no sign of getting out of low gear in its delay drive toward an adjournment set for noon Saturday.

The entire day was spent on the sales tax and the jaded body returned for another night session—expected to be a nightly occurrence until the end of the record-long Legislature.

ONLY MINOR CHANGES

As finally adopted by the Senate after a day and a half of debate, the measure involves only minor administrative changes in the present sales tax law which has proved the state's largest single revenue producer — worth nearly $22,000,000 a year.

However, it must be concurred in by the House.

Two more appropriation bills reached the Senate floor with committee approval of allotments of $455,704 for expenses of the Legislature and $1,124,713 for the Highway Patrol. But the committee still had before it the toughest appropriation problem: What to do about the social security funds. It must be solved before adjournment.

In addition, there is Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's proposal to win federal blind aid, and another Stark-demanded bill to bring all classes of trucks under Public Service Commission fees.

TRUCK BILL PENDING

The latter measure spent three unhappy days on the Senate floor last week and appears likely to face another prolonged bombardment when it is called up again—probably tomorrow.

Also to be crammed into the closing rush are compromise agreements on numerous bills now in conference and aproval of conference reports on several appropriation measures.

Even the legislative leaders who sponsored yesterday's agreement to quit Saturday admitted it would take a sharp quickening of pace to finish by then.

First Movie Taken in Sikeston Completed

Sikeston has been permanently recorded for posterity in moving pictures. The Kiwanis production was completed Tuesday at noon. There were 3100 feet of film used to completely portray the town activities for the silver screen. A preview will be given on Saturday or Sunday. The first public showing is scheduled for Monday, June 26, at the Malone Theatre. The box office will open at 12:45; screening will begin promptly at 1:00 p. m. and showing will continue until 11:00 p. m.

Tickets are now on sale. All Kiwanians have a supply. The public is urged to buy in advance and save a dime.

Interest in the pictures increased until the last minute. Business firms and organizations requesting to be included in the pictures. Almost the last picture taken was the group of children in Mrs. T. A. Martin's Story Hour for children.

About 50 business firms are represented in the screening. Not all could be included because of lack of time and space. However none was left out intentionally. It was impossible to include all.

Most of the religious organizations of the city, with their pastors and choirs are included.

All of the men's service clubs and the women's civic clubs have their pictures in the showing.

Federal, state and municipal officials and personnel were taken in their line of duty. The Boy Scouts and other groups of children and young people were filmed as they played.

There will be many surprises. Views were taken of the town from the top of the Marshall Hotel. There will be some trick photography at the swimming pool, on the streets and in business houses. Workers in some of the firms were so slow that they had to be speeded up. There will be humor, romance and drama. The only tragedy is that some failed to get into the movies.

The seeing public will view Dr. McMullin losing his dignity, Earl Allen embarrassed and other Kiwanians in humorous situations. They will see Bob Harper and Ed Hollingsworth running to keep from being late to Kiwanis meeting. Also, E. R. Putnam pushing his employees to get out rush orders. The Sikeston Bakery made such an attractive display of cakes and eats that a group of children were attracted to it. A kiddie review of about 25 children at Shainberg's store.

Some scenes were taken in the country; farmers harvesting, using combines and binders. Dairy herds are shown. The members of a 4-H Pig Club with their pigs appear on the film. The list seems endless.

The Kiwanis Club suggests that all who possible can attend in the afternoon and that the children take advantage of the matinee prices. An overflow crowd is expected at night.

Cattle Pink Eye Prevails

Extension Veterinarian Offers Solution to Scott County Epidemic

A widespread outbreak of pink eye among cattle in Scott County was disclosed in a letter from County Agent Leon Lane to Andred W. Uren, extension veterinarian at Columbia. A solution to the epidemic was offered by Dr. Uren, who said:

"We have found that the best thing to do in controlling outbreaks of pink eye in cattle is to remove the affected animals, if possible, from the direct rays of the sun; that is, to put the animals with affected eyes into a darkened barn and to keep them there during the day or while the sun is shining.

"The animals with affected eyes should have a few drops of 20 per cent solution of argyrol put in the eyes twice a day with an eye dropper. Most cases of pink eye will cure up within four to five days when third treatment is followed.

"In addition to this it is advisable to mow down the weeds that are in the pasture. This is especialy true if you have a heavy growth of ragweeds or other weeds that produce a lot of pollen. The pollen off the weed brushes off into the eyes of the cattle causing irritation and open, small wounds through which the organism that causes the infection enters. If the pasture in which the cattle are grazing have these weeds mowed down the pollen will not affect the eyes of the cattle and you are not so apt to have cases of pink eye as you are when the cattle are grazing in a lot of weeds."

Soehlig-Robinson Nuptials at Oran

Miss Mary Soehlig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Soehlig of Oran, and Noel Robinson, son of Mrs. A. E. Robinson of near Sikeston, were married the past week at the First Baptist Church in Oran, Rev. Warren performing the ceremony.

It was the first wedding at the church since it was built. A single ring ceremony was used. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Soehlig of Cape Girardeau were attendants. Mr. Soehlig is a brother of the bride.

The bride wore a floor-length delicate blue organza gown, and the bridesmaid floor-length delicate peach organza. The song, "I Love You Truly", was sang by Miss Hazel Jennings, accompanied by Miss Eudora McCarty. Miss Jennings played the wedding march. Only the immediate members of the family and a few friends were present. Dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Robinson has been employed for the past two years at the Scoff County Oil Co. in Oran and is going to continue to work there. Mr. Robinson is a carpenter, and the couple will live at Oran.

Mat Murray Quits K. C. Job

Defends Record, Denies Padding Payroll of Public Works Department

Kansas City, June 20.—Matthew S. Murray, political beneficiary of the imprisoned "Boss" Thomas J. Pendergast, today resigned as director of public works of Kansas City in preference to relinquishing his federal post as state WPA director.

Murray told the Star-Times his resignation was "the direct result of the heat" turned on him as a result of disclosures of payroll padding in the street cleaning division of his public works department.

Denying responsibility for the padding, Murray added, "I have done a good job as director of public works."

Murray's resignation was in answer to an ultimatum delivered yesterday by Mayor Bryce B. Smith demanding that Murray give up one of his two jobs.

By choosing to retain his WPA post, at least, temporarily rather than his city job, Murray is sacrificing $2,000 a year. As director of public works he received $8,000 a year. His salary as WPA director is $6,000 a year.

House Cheers Clark For President

Jefferson City, June 20.—Mention of Missouri's senior United States Senator, Bennett Champ Clark, for the presidency of the United States brought applause in the House today.

The Senator's father, Champ Clark, former Speaker of the National House of Representatives and nearly successful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1912, was being praised as "one of Missouri's greatest citizens" by a Republican lawmaker when Representative John D. Taylor (Dem.), Keytesville, interrupted:

"Won't the gentleman of the minority try to persuade his 51 brethern to join with the majority in performing one of the finest acts of their careers in 1940—electing Champ Clark's illustrious son President of the United States?"

The remark came while the House was considering purchasing a $2500 oil painting of Champ Clark to hang in the Lower Chamber where he served in 1889.

DRAINAGE CAMP UNDER SOIL CONSERVATION

Clark E. Jacoby, who has been drainage inspector for the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Engineering since the spring of 1935, closed out his work for the Bureau Thursday and started to Milwaukee to report. He has been in charge of the drainage camps in Missouri and of several in Illinois and Kentucky. All the drainage camps pass out of the control of the bureau on June 30th and thereafter will be supervised by the Soil Conservation Service. Inspector Jacoby will also be taken over by the SCS and will work out of the new Milwaukee SCS office in an engineering inspection capacity.

REA Rescues Bullfrogs In Dire Need

Electricity Solves the Food Problem; Staking Of Extension Continues

How the REA saved the bullfrogs day was related Wednesday by H. M. Zaricor of this city, superintendent of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Co-operative Association.

A few years back, John Russell, who lives two miles from Sikeston on the Salcedo road, got the idea he would like to raise bullfrogs at his farm as a hobby.

He went to work and dug a series of three ponds some distance from his house and installed the bullfrogs. Sometimes times were good and the frogs got enough to eat. Again, times were tough, the bullfrogs got thin and as many as half of them died. It all depended upon the quantity of food they received. And it was problem to get them the food.

REA TO THE RESCUE

In the midst of this bullfrog plight, came the REA. When the co-operative built a line out of Sikeston Mr. Russell became a subscriber. After he had arranged for lighting his houses and around his barn, he decided to do something about the frogs, whose legs are a choice dish on any table.

Buying 300 feet of insulated wire, he extended a line by means of a series of small poles from his house to the ponds, providing a complete circuit for the 1500-foot distance. Lights were strung over the ponds. They are lit from about 7 to 10:30 o'clock each evening Bugs by the thousands, attracted by the lights, topple into the water. The bullfrogs do the rest. Needless to say, the waistlines of these frogs are now stretched to the limit.

EXTENSION PROGRESSES

Easements on the 208-milee extension are now being secured as the REA engineer stake out the line, Mr. Zaricor said. This method will be shorter in the long run, he said. About 80 miles have been staked to day, and a portion of this are branches from the original line as well as the Stoddard extension.

Approximately 14 miles will be added when the full La Forge project plans are completed. There will be nine miles in Mississippi County added, and 14 in Scott County. The remainder of the 80 miles, for the most part, extends into Stoddard County west from Canalou, and some of it goes into the county from Salcedo.

"Once we get 100 miles of continuous line staked, the contractor can begin on the pole lines," the superintendent said.

POLES BOW TO ROAD

In order to make way for the widening of the road from Brown's Spur north to the Tanner road, a distance of four miles, poles are being set back from their original holes a distance of 15 feet—without shutting off the current. Only two men move the poles, which support four wires on a three-phase circuit. George Ewing, assistant project superintendent, and Billy Keller jack up a pole on an A-frame, and ease it in the direction of the new hole, while guy ropes keep the pole from toppling. They can hit a pace of five a days.

Vandals Damage Dressing Rooms

Damage to lockers and plain vandalism has been reported at the High School, occurring in dressing rooms of both boys and girls in the evening during softball games. As an accommodation to players and spectators, doors leading to the dressing rooms and toilets are left unlocked. Youngsters broke into virtually every locker in the two dressing rooms by bending back the tin doors. Only a few lockers had locks on them, but all doors were bent back. In the boys' dressing room a hose was left running full blast, flooding the floor. A watch will be kept to catch any boys attempting to do further damage.

DRAGLINE MOVED WEST OF CONRAN

The structure crew of the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp, under the supervision of Foreman Cecil A. Westmoreland, helped the Speeder dragline Monday and Tuesday in getting across a large inlet entering Ditch 56, west of Conran.

Farmers Plan Soils and Crops Conference

Scott County will hold summer soils and crops meetings on July 11.

According to County Agent Lane, one meeting starting at 8:30 a. m. will be held at the farm of Theon Grojean at New Hamburg. The other meeting will be a tour of several farms in the vicinity of the Hunter School, three miles north of Sikeston. Detailed plans for the meetings are being worked out by Carl Luper, Chas. Gardner and Arthur Schiwitz, officers of Scott County's Soils and Crops Committee for 1939.

At these meetings special effort will be made to enable Scott County farmers observe how some farmers have adjusted their farming operations to best fit their individual farms, so as to conserve their soil to best advantage and at the same time provide adequate incomes for their families.

These meetings are being scheduled in most counties of the state as a follow-up to the annual soils and crops conferences. Scott County's fifth annual soils and crops conference held last February was attended by 200 delegates and visitors. This meeting should furnish a good opportunity to observe under actual farm conditions some of hte factors discussed at the winter conference.

The program at the meeting will be based upon the current problems Scott County farmers are facing in conserving their soil and maintaining adequate incomes. The improvement of pastures, adapting cropping systems to individual farms, the best methods of using lime and fertilizer for most efficient returns, the use of good seed, and the growing of crops that best fit the needs of Scott County farmers will be observed and discussed.

Suspect in Auto Theft

Negro Picked Up Near Bertrand Wanted by Yazoo City, Mississippi

Taken into custody at Bertrand after he failed to give his correct name to Sgt. Melvin Dace of the State Patrol Andrew James Johnson, 31, negro, is being held in the Charleston jail on a charge of auto theft in Mississippi.

A message here Tuesday from Sheriff Warren at Yazoo City, Miss., said Johnson was wanted there for stealing a 1938 Buick. The negro worked at a service station, it was explained, and departed with a customer's car, wrecking it shortly after. This occurred two months ago.

The patrolman stopped and questioned Johnson as the negro was walking toward Charleston. He gave the name Andrew Jones, but papers indicating his real name were found in his pocket. Johnson said he had worked around Hayti and had chopped cotton in this vicinity. Cairo was his destination, he said.

A first message said Johnson was wanted for murder, but this information proved unfounded.

In the company of a constable and city marshal of Salem, Mo., who came here Wednesday, Sgt. Dace arrested a man named Fontaine at New Madrid on a charge of burglarizing a drug store in Salem. Fontaine lived with relatives at New Madrid. The Salem officers took him back there the same day.

GRASSHOPPERS REPORTED IN TWO COMMUNITIES

Grasshoppers were reported to be showing up to a considerable extent on some two or three farms in the Lilbourn community, according to P. J. Stearns, a member of the County Insect Control Committee. Also, John Klipfel of the Conran community reported that hoppers were appearing in fairly large numbers on his farm and on one or two of the neighboring farms. Although no very serious damage has been done as yet every farmer in the county is urged to keep a close lookout and start spreading some poison bait from the mixing station just as soon as he discovers hoppers, in any quantity of his farm.

Rev. E. W. Milner, pastor of the First Baptist Church, went to Fornfelt Monday where he entered a two-week revival meeting at the First Baptist Church there. The pastor of the Fornfelt church will be in Sikeston Sunday to preach during the Rev. Mr. Milner's absence.

Officials Plans For Second Fall Festival

Murray Phillips Named Chairman; Tentative Dates are October 6-7

Plans and possibilities for the Fall Festival were made at a meeting of business men Monday evening in the office of John Powell, and the date of the second annual Sikeston jubilee was tentatively set for Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7.

Officers previously had been re-elected at a meeting in Japuary, and C. H. Denman, president, tendered his resignation Monday night. It was immediately accepted.

JUBILEE OFFICERS

Murray Phillips was elected to the chairmanship of the Festival.

Other officers are: Vice-president, C. L. Malone; secretary, John Powell; treasurer, C. D. Matthews, III. The Board of Director consists of Mayor G. W. Presnell, Mrs. P. A. McDougal, F. D. Lair, R. A. Harper and Mr. Phillips. Officers and directors were present.

Various ideas for the festival, in the way of entertainment and displays, were discussed, in order to form a general outline of the jubilee.

WEATHER A FACTOR

The dates set for the event were selected tentatively because it was felt that the week end last year, coming the last week in September, was a trifle hot. Festival officials in the next few weeks will be on the lookout for any other Southeast Missouri events which might be in conflict with the dates selected.

Expenditures and receipts of last event will be studied, Mr. Powell said, so that a budget for the coming celebration can be arrived at.

The purpose of the jubilee is to attract crowds from all over Southeast Missouri and show them the commercial advantages of Sikeston. Last year an estimated 10,000 persons attended. Cities from all parts supplied floats, bands and queen candidates.

Another meeting will be held in the near future.

Burial Society Bill Passed by House

Jefferson City, June 20.—The House pumped new life into a bill regulating burial societies today and passed it, 84 to 26, after almost a full day of boisterous debate.

Such bills have occupied both branches for many hours this session, but the subject was believed closed two weeks ago when the lower branch failed by one vote to pass its bill and a House committee at the same time killed a stricter Senate-approved measure.

The House measure, sponsored by Representatives Wayne V. Slankard of Newton County and Willis Lane, Stone County, was reconsidered and passed today. It would require the societies to pay in cash and permit members' families to select the undertakers.

It contains a provision that its terms shall not affect policies of associations now in existence, but foes of the bill said they feared this section might be removed by the Senate.

"What we ought to do with these societies is bury them," shouted Representative John D. Taylor, Keytesville, in a bitter attack on the associations.

"In all the 30 years I've been around this assembly, I've never seen as many lobbyists as the vultures who have been hovering here supporting the oposition to this bill."

Taylor charged one burial society operator testified at a House hearing that his association made an assesment of $30,000 for 116 funerals, an average of $258, while another operator said the average cost was $69.

It had been generally supposed that the visit of the King and Queen of England to the United States had been a successful and satisfactory affair. It seemed to be well understood that their British Majesties had enjoyed their visit and that the pleasant duties of hospitality had been handled without a hitch or any untoward incident.

It remained for the Honorable Hamilton Fish, ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Jeremiah-in-chief of the Republican party, to wake us from this happy dream. His complaint is that the G. O. P. was practically ignored in the social doings. The 169 Republican members of the House of Representatives and the 23 Republican Senators were all there at the Congressional reception, of course, and a Republican ex-Secretary of State and an ambassador or two of the same complexion were noted among the guests at some of the other functions. Nevertheless, Mr. Fish sees in the events of the great occasion of darkling political purpose of the President in making out the guest lists.

OVERLOOKING 1936

It so happens, of course, that in the 1936 elections the people of the United States, disregarding the advice and lamentations of the ranking Republican on the Foreign Affairs Committee, elected a Democratic administration. And as a natural consequence of this, the Cabinet officers and other high officials of the government are at this time of the Democratic persuasion. As the formal affairs were almost exclusively severely official, the political quality of those who attended seems logical enough. Mr. Fish in his objections to the matter does not go into detail as to what partisan subtlety the President had in mind. He apparently knows that there was some hidden purpose on his general theory that some furtive impulse lurks in everything the President does. Perhaps he thought that if the British Empire ever comes seeking admission to the American Union, the Britishers might, because of all the Democrats they met, make up new Democratic States.

Doubtless King George had at his elbow somebody who would indicate whether those who greeted him were Democrats, Republicans or Independents. It is more tenable perhaps that the British ruler had as vague an idea of our politics as we have of the politics of the British Isles. But just the same, Mr. Fish knows that somewhere there was hidden a deep plot against the Republicans.

The logic was exemplified the other day when Mr. Fish, who happens to represent the Congressional district in New York where Franklin D. Roosevelt has his home, objected to the establishment of a government library, the cost of which is to be defrayed by the President and friends, to house the Roosevelt archives at Hyde Park.

PRESIDENT ALWAYS WRONG

The G. O. P. has varied the old world saw that "The King can do no wrong" with the slogan that "the President is always wrong." According to their doctrine, he is wrong in his relief spending program. Likewise he is wrong when he tries to hold down the budget, to which the Senate added four hundred million dollars or so for farm subsidies, while all the time the Republican high command was filling the mails with pamphlets bewailing the Administration's extravagance and insisting that it was plunging the nation into bankruptcy. Somehow, the minority party never refers to the circumstance that the United States Treasury bonds are selling at higher prices than bonds anywhere, nor do they refer to the circumstance that the American dollar is the most stable currency in the world.

There might be some substance to the ghost of national bankruptcy if, for example, the Townsend plan, for which fifty-five Republicans in the House voted the other day, was ever put into effect, inasmuch as the fiscal experts tell us that that would involve a government expenditure beside which the Treasury's deficit sounds like peanut money.

The Republican high command may deny responsibility for the fifty-five Republican Representatives who pledged themselves to Dr. Townsend in their vote hunting before election and who went through with it when they were forced to a record vote in the House. The minority party propagandists, in voicing their horror at what the Rosoevelt administration is doing, called the WPA projects "boondoggling," notwithstanding that the great bulk of expenditures of WPA have gone into roads, bridges, public buildings, city sewage systems, flood prevention dams, and other examples of needed construction and utilities, while providing work for some millions who would otherwise be unemployed. The object to the extent of direct relief and in their 1936 campaigning they proclaimed the national Social Security Act, unemployment insurance, old age pension, etc., as a vicious socialistic program which was at once a fraud on the employer and a robbery of the employed. And yet the Republican National Committee has never by so much as a word disowned or repudiated the Townsend program of $200 a month pension to every man and woman in the United states over sixty-five years of age. It is estimated that there are eleven million of these elderly folks. And a recent article published in a financial magazine estimated the net cost to the government at $24,000,000,000 a year.

This silence is, of course, merely another vote getting device. It is a cruel hoax on the old folks, whose natural desire is security in their declining years, and leads them to believe the unbelievable and to accept as practical the most visionary proposal that has been heard since this country turned its attention to the problem of old age pensions. It is doubly a hoax, for in the first place no nation could endure the strain of such a policy, and second, because even in the unlikely event of the Republicans regaining control of the government, they would not dare attempt to fix such a burden upon us.

How much money do you suppose the plethoric Liberty League, under its various aliases, would contribute to elect a Republican candidate if they had the slightest idea that the latter's election would give us the Townsend plan?

"Clowns" at St. Louis Zoo Make Comedy for Movies

ST. LOUIS—(Special)—The 1939 edition of the St. Louis Zoo's "Jungle Follies," which will be seen in the flesh by thousands of tourists this summer, will also bring some hearty guffaws to movie audiences throughout the country.

A year ago Zoo officials rejected a flattering offer to take a troupe of the senior champanzees to Hollywood, so this season filmland has come to the animal kingdom to make a two-reel picture showing not only how funny these animals are, but how they get that way.

Big Show for Visitors

A holiday crowd of 35,000 is nothing unusual at this world-famous zoo, and the license plates of virtually every state may be seen on the driveways any day. There are four troupes of performing animals, including elephants and lions and tigers as well as the "Chimps." They give two full shows a day on week days and three on Sundays.

"Jackie and His Gang of Chimps" perform almost human tricks, having their own swing band, waltzing in pairs, jumping on stilts and doing an astonishing number of other stunts. Jackie himself smokes cigarets, rides a unicycle and picks out the melody of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on a special organ. The antics of another group, the "Chimp Kindergarten," reveal not only the remarkable aptitude of chimpanzees, but the methods used in training the younger animals to take the places of those which, upon reaching maturity, are difficult to control.

Funny Elephants Too

The chimpanzees have keen rivals in Marian, Vi and Clara Belle, young Indian elephants who go in for a sort of "dead pan" comedy that visitors find hilarious. And for drama there's the combined lion and tiger show where these traditional jungle rivals are made to perform remarkable feats in the same cage and in complete docility.

With four such major attractions as its internationally-famous Municipal Opera, the Zoo, Shaw's Botanical Gardens and the Lindbergh Trophies, St. Louis has found it desirable to establish a "Visit St. Louis" Headquarters at 511 Locust Street, from which a booklet and other free literature are sent to those contemplating a visit to the Missouri metropolis. A larger influx of visitors is expected this summer than ever before because of increased traveling due to the two world's fairs.

Monkey Music-Maker

IT'S A WONDERFUL WORLD

RESUME

Private Detective Guy Johnson and Edwina Corday, goofy poetess, find themselves allies in the search for the real murderer of Dolores Gonzales, Broadway beauty. Guy knows that Willie Heyward, sentenced to die for the murder, has been framed. His only clue is the half of a dime he found next to the murdered girl's body. But: Vivian Heyward, Willie's wife, wears a half-a-dime on her charm bracelet; also, an item in a newspaper Personals Column signed HALF-A-DIME urges someone to come to the Saugerties Theatre and see the husband she thought dead. Guy believes that Vivian framed Willie so that she might inherit the Heyward fortune of ten million dollars and that she is now being blackmailed by HALF-A-DIME, her former husband whom she thought dead. After innumerable adventures, Guy and Edwina land at the Saugerties Theatre. Cap Streeter, Guy's co-worker at the New York detective agency traces him there. Edwina, believing Cap is a police detective, knocks him out with a lead pipe. Guy forbids her to do any further "sleuthing." In Dressing Room No. 7 he finds the newspaper containing HALF-A-DIME's Personals item. As he searches the room, a man enters.

Chapter Nine

WHO HAS THE CLUE?

"Hello, there, Half-A-Dime," Guy greeted slowly, "How's Vivian?"

The man stared at him. "Ah guess you got the wrong Mister. Mah name is Sam Peters — "

"Sorry, mah error," Guy drawled. "Ah'm Hemingway — come from Alabama. Just joined the cast. Ah guess Ah got your newspaper — found it behind your mirror — "

"That isn't mah mirror," Peters answered. "In this yeah haymow there ain't no pussonal mirror; you just grab any place as comes in handy. You-all dressin' with us?"

"Dunno," answered Guy. "How many's heah now?"

"A bunch of us — but you can shove in somewheres — "

"Well," said Peters, "there's Stan Robinson — Joe Marhouse — Jed Fillmore — Lupton Peabody. Do you know Lupton?"

Guy shook his head. Peters sat down at the dressing table to put on his make-up. While he busied himself, Guy hastily scribbled down the names he'd mentioned.

Meanwhile, Edwina was hunting down clues of her own.

Wearing a heavy veil and dark glasses, she entered the main theatre lobby to observe the people coming in. She hadn't long to wait before Vivian Heyward arrived. Edwina recognized her at once from her newspaper photographs. She also recognized the swarthy, suave man in dinner clothes, who entered a few moments later. He was Al Mallon. Guy had told Edwina that Mallon was supposedly Vivian's business manager.

Neither Vivian nor Al greeted each other. She opened her bag and took out a cigarette. As she put it to her lips, Mallon advanced with the courteous, detached manner of a stranger. "May I?" he asked and struck a match.

"Thank you," Vivian smiled.

Edwina strained her ears.

"Where did you put the car?" she heard Al ask softly.

"Parked it near your dressing room." Vivian replied. "Have you talked to him?"

"Why waste time talking?"

Vivian smoked silently for a second. "He said he'd take a million on the phone — "

"He won't need it tomorrow," Al said flatly.

"Good luck," she murmured.

He nodded and sauntered off.

Vivian made for the auditorium. Edwina, with deliberate intent, bumped into her.

"Will you please look where you're going?" Vivian demanded acidly.

"Terribly sorry," Edwina apologized.

They entered the theatre. Vivian sat down. Edwina pushed her way through the same row to a seat beyond, climbing over the other awkwardly.

"Why don't you watch where you're going?" Vivian said sharply.

"I'm so sorry," Edwina murmured. With her veil still covering her face she kept steady watch on Vivian.

Meanwhile backstage, Guy wandered from one player to another checking up the list of names Peters had given him.

A furtive "psst — psst — " stopped him. Cap Streeter, a huge bump on his bald head, was hailing him from the top of a tall ladder. Guy all but shouted in relief: Edwina hadn't killed Cap with her lead-pipe blow — and neither had the police found him.

"How are you feeling?" he managed to ask.

"So, so," answered Cap. "I figured she got you by this time—"

"Who?" Guy questioned.

"That hatchet woman — Vivian — she hit me over the head with something — she's the cruelest dame who ever lived — and she's sittin' out front as if nothing had happened — "

"So she's here, eh?" Guy mused.

"Yeah; just like nothing happened — "

"Well nothing has, yet — "

"What do you mean — nothing's happened," exploded Cap. "I been on the brink of death — "

"Oh, that," Guy replied. "She didn't do it — a friend of mine did it — "

"What are you talking about, Johnson? What friend?"

"It was a dame I picked up — "

"You mean it wasn't Vivian? Well who was it?"

"You wouldn't know her — "

"Why should she conk me, then?"

"She thought she were helping me; she thought you were a cop. She wanted to save me. Did they get your name?"

"Who?"

"The cops who found you hit on the head in my room?"

"Sure. How could I cover up. They checked up on me too — called the Major — "

"There goes the ball game," Guy said bitterly. "Ten to one Miller and Koretz had the Major's wire tapped — "

"Yeah — and that means that Lt. Miller and Sgt. Koretz of the New York Police will be up here before you can say Sing Sing!"

"We still got a chance," Guy insisted. "If Vivian's out front it means tonight's bank night. She's got somebody working for her backstage — "

"There ain't a chance," Cap replied, equally insistent. "We don't know who's gettin' killed or who's gonna do the killin' and we got a half hour to find out. As I see it, we got to solve a crime that ain't been committed and we gotta prevent it, too. Brother — I'm packing — "

"Listen," Guy pleaded. "I been holding out on you. I get a hundred grand from Willie Heyward if I win — and you're in on it—"

"I never see such a case of blind greed," Cap said dourly.

"We're wasting time," Guy remonstrated. "I've been after Half-A-Dime all day. He's one of three people. I've checked up on everybody else." He pointed to an electrician working high above them on the other side of the stage. "That guy's name is Lupton Peabody. You tackle him because I've got to go on the stage soon — tell him Vivian sent you as a go-between — "

"Curtain's going up," warned the stage manager.

Guy adjusted his uniform. "Watch out when the shooting starts," he advised and hurried off to take his place on the stage.

Cap made for the electrician at once. "Excuse me, are you Mr. Peabody — "

Peabody waved him aside. "I'm busy — go away — "

"Vivian sent me," offered Cap significantly.

"Who?" asked the other as he worked the spotlights.

"I'm your friend," hissed Cap. "You don't have to cover up for me, Half-A-Dime. Vivian is ready to listen to reason — "

"Go away," shouted Peabody, "or I'll call the stage manager — "

"I've a hundred grand in my pocket for you — "

The electrician looked about wildly. "Help — help — " he cried — "Mr. Delmonico — somebody — help — there's a mad man loose here — "

Cap ducked as the stage manager rushed forward in answer to Peabody's cries of distress. He managed to squeeze his way through the line of players making their exits and entrances on the stage. He would have disappeared into the night, if Edwina had not bumped into him with a force that practically floored him.

"I beg your pardon," she began—

The sound effects went off with a bang. Cap recalled that Guy's orders were for him to watch the shooting. He shoved her aside and looked wildly about as the men on stage pulled their guns.

"Quick," Edwina whispered, pulling at his arm.

"What? Who are you?" he hissed.

"Edwina Corday. Listen to me. Cap Streeter — they're out there —in front—watching the show—"

"Who?" he groaned.

"Those dicks Guy escaped from — those policemen — "

"What?" he groaned.

She nodded. "Yes. They're both out there — Lt. Miller and Sgt. Koretz —"

Will Miller and Koretz find Guy? Or will Edwina and Cap help him elude them? Read tomorrow's chapter.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete your highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

Long Bill and Riley Employ Feet to Win

Feet and legs played prominent part Wednesday night in a show—not a stage show, but the wrestling matches at the arena. Long Bill Hall kicked and stomped his way to victory over Floyd Byrd, and Tex Riley was too swift on the flying heels for Red Roberts.

Byrd found Hall's legs coming from all directions like an octupus and knew not when his own hold would be superseded by one from the lanky lengs. Byrd, however, won the first fall in 17 minutes with a bear hug and body pin.

The next two falls came so suddenly that the entire match was over before Byrd had a chance to return to normal breathing. In 40 seconds after the second round began, Hall tied Byrd in a knot with a hook scissors. And if the second fray was fast, so was the third. When the bell rang, Hall came to the center of the ring, gave Byrd a hard kick in the chest and then two body slams, followed by a hook scissors. That was all.

Riley won his first in 14 minutes with drop kicks. Each wrestler took a turn of tossing the other from the ring, and roughing and slugging was frequent. Roberts in his trip back to the ring brought a handful of gravel to assist himself against Riley, but the referee knew it would not be a friendly chat so he made Red give up his pebbles. Roberts won the second, in 10 minutes, with body slams. The deciding match went to Riley on kangaroo kicks. Five minutes had elapsed.

Louie Knickle, professional refereee from Chattanooga, Tenn., refereed both matches and did a good job. Mike Meroney is recovering from a throat operation.

"KATINKA" REVIVED AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

St. Louis — The long-famous comic opera success, "Katinka", will be revived at the open-air Municipal Theatre in Forest Park, beginning Monday night, June 26, and continuing through Sunday evening, July 2.

"Katinka" is one of the most successful works of the renowned composer, Rudolf Friml, who also wrote the music for such outstanding hits as "Firefly," "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King" and "The Three Musketeers." Author of the play is Otto Harbach, whose long list of musical successes include the "Cat and the Fiddle," "Roberta," and "No, No, Nanette."

A marvelous cast of prima donnas, comedians, leading men and dancers has been engaged for the comic opera. Billy House and Lester Allen, two incomparable comedians, who starred in "Queen High" and "Rose Marie," respectively, at the open-air theater this summer, will be on hand to insure a full evening of fun. Nancy McCord and Gladys Baxter, a pair of real queens, will be seen in principal feminine roles.

Other favorites of the current season appearing in "Katinka" are Douglas Leavitt, Frederic Persson, Eleanor Searlie, Al Downing and Dorothy Johnson.

Robert K. Shafer, a newcomer, will sing the male romantic lead of Ivan Dimitri. Shafer comes to the Municipal Opera with a long string of Broadway triumphs, including "Show is On," "At Home Abroad," and "Hooray for What." Another new star, Joseph Vitale, who also has been featured in numerous New York musical hits, will be seen in "Katinka."

Ted Adair, sensational dancer of the American stage, will join with the noted ballerina, Nina Stroganova, in supplying some brilliant dance specialties for the Friml piece. The Municipal Opera singing and dancing chorus also will be bright features of the production.

"Katinka" is famous for its gaiety and charm. There is an abundance of bright music, of the haunting quality for which Friml is famed. Among the familiar numbers are "In This Ruby Cup of Wine," "Tis the End, So Farewell," "The Weekly Wedding," "Rackey Coo," "In Vienna Girls Are Brightest," "My Paradise," "I Want to Marry a Male Quartet" and "On My Heart."

The story shifts between Russia and France. Boris, a Russian ambassador, is to be married to Katinka. Among the guests is Ivan Dimitri, who really loves her, and who would have won her, but for some intercepted letters. Then enters the dues ex machina in the person of Thaddeus T. Hopper, a wealthy American chap. He agrees with Ivan to abduct Katinka, on the day of her wedding, and does so. But when he arrives with her at Anzuli matters are badly complicated by the presence of Hopper's wife, who is something of a virago. Later Katinka becomes a singer in a Paris Cafe; and at last is united to Ivan.

Answers To The Moth Question

By Katharine Fisher

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Here are our answers to the questions thousands of women have asked us about moths, and how to defeat them. They are answers which have been thoroughly checked for accuracy.

Q. Do flying moths eat holes in wools?

A. No, it is the larvae or little white worms that hatch out of the eggs laid by the flying moths that do the damage. The eggs hatch in a few days in comfortably warm places, so wools left undisturbed where moths can get at them may soon be damaged.

Q. How can winter clothing be protected from moth damage during the summer?

A. It can be mothproofed, or fumigated or sprayed with an insect spray, and stored where moths cannot possibly reach it. Or it may be stored in a cedar chest. Good laundering and dry cleaning leave wools free from moths. If they are stored at once where moths cannot reach them, they will be protected against damage.

Q. How is clothing mothproofed?

A. By spraying it with a mothproofing solution which makes it distasteful and inedible to moths. First brush the clothing well, then spray it very thoroughly. Do not overlook a spot, and don't forget seams and folds, the under surface of collars, under buttons, and in pockets. Every thread must be covered. Blankets, sweaters and other easily washable wools can be immersed (or rinsed) in a solution of a mothproofing compound available for that purpose. Mothproofed clothing need not be stored out of the reach of moths. It may hang in a closet or lie in a drawer or on a sheif.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Q. How are wools fumigated?

A. By the use of a fumigant. Fumigants are usually either paradichlorobenzene or naphthalene, and are sold as such or under brand names. They give off fumes that kill moths at all stages, provided the fumes are strong enough and the moths are exposed to the fumes long enough. This can only be done well if plenty of fumigant is used and if the fumes are inclosed in a space that is comfortably warm and practically air-tight.

Q. Can wools be protected well by fumigating them in dresser drawers?

A. Not unless they are sprinkled liberally with the fumigant and at once wrapped closely and sealed in strong paper to keep the fumes from escaping. Wrapped in this way they may also be laid on shelves.

Q. Can wools be fumigated in closets?

A. Yes, if the closet adjoins a room that is comfortably warm. Clean the closet, then sprinkle the fumigant on shelves and floor, using a pound of fumigant for a small closet 2' x 2' x 7' (28 cubic ft.) or 2¼ lbs. for a closet 3' x 3' x 7' (63 cubic ft.) and so on. Now hang up the clothing to be fumigated and seal the closet door with gummed paper or the tape used by fumigators. Leave the clothes there until they are needed again.

Q. Can clothes be fumigated by hanging a fumigant in a closet that is in use?

A. No, as the fumes escape when the door is opened and so become too weak to kill the moths.

Q. Will moths attack clothing and other wools that have been thoroughly fumigated?

A. Yes, fumigation does not mothproof wools. In fumigating any wools, therefore, they must be left stored where moths cannot get at them until they are going to be used again.

Q. How can insect sprays protect wools from moth damage?

A. These sprays kill the moths, or their eggs or larvae when they come in contact with them. The spraying, like the fumigation, must be done very thoroughly. They do not mothproof the wool; therefore the spraying must be repeated regularly if moths are about, or the wools, after being sprayed, must be stored at once where moths can't get at them.

Third Site Being Considered For WPA Swimming Pool

Jaycees Are Staging Drive to Purchase Lot Beside High School

What may be the solution to the big problem of locating the swimming pool appeared near Thursday morning when a Junior Chamber of Commerce committee raised $191 in one hour and twenty minutes toward the purchase of a lot site.

The site now under consideration is a lot in the field to the east of the High School, fronting the road that leads from Tanner Avenue to the athletic field.

Efforts put forth by the committee on two previous occasions to locate the pool on the park space behind the armory and later on the South Grade grounds met with objections from nearby property owners. Being connected virtually with the school grounds, the latest site, to be purchased outright, will not be so close to residences.

The goal of the committee is $800 to pay for the lot, belonging to Mrs. Louis Ellen Sutton.

After exhausting all other possibilities, the Jaycee committee found as the only alternative that they might buy a lot for it if the funds could be raised. One-fourth of the goal was secured from part of the local business men in the Thursday morning drive.

Hal Lynch, Clayton architect, is going ahead with plans for the pool, WPA approved project to cost $30,000. The $10,000 sponsor's share will come from $5000 in bonds already voted and from donations of civic clubs and individuals. Proceeds from a small swimming fee will enable the pool custodians, a Jaycee group, to repay donors.

Already school swimming classes have been discussed in connection with building the pool by the High School.

The Jaycee committee will be able to tell after continuing the drive if sufficient funds can be collected to buy the lot, 175 by 200 feet.

Letting LaForge Wiring Contracts

Contracts were to be let Thursday at the La Forge project for the wiring preparatory to the incoming Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi County Co-operative line.

Separate bids were asked for wiring the cotton gin, for 33 homes already partially wired, and for 62 unwired homes. The contracts were to be let at the office of Hans Baasch, project director. The co-operative store and office already have been wired.

Mrs. Z. E. McAmis and son, Eddie, left Monday morning for Athens, Tenn. to visit relatives for several weeks.

Chas. Bethune to Odd Fellows Post 5th Straight Year

Charles eBthune of this city received notification Thursday morning he had been appointed for the fifth consecutive year as Deputy Grand Master of the 98th District, Grand Lodge of Missouri, in the Odd Fellows. The appointment came from Elmer J. Campbell, state Grand Master, of Butler. The 98th District includes lodges, besides the one at Sikeston, in Bell City, Puxico, Dexter, Essex and Morehouse.

Mrs. R. M. Bugg drove to West Plains, Mo. Wednesday to visit for several days.

P.-T. A. Plans Chain Food Basket; Canning Of Kiddies' Food Begun

The executive committee of the P.-T. A. met at the home of the president, Mrs. C. R. Auten, Wednesday evening and made plans to circulate a Friendly Food Basket among the members of the P.-T. A. to raise funds to pay for the seed used in the planting of the P.-T. A. garden and for the expenses involved in the canning project.

A list of names of persons interested in the project was prepared and placed in a basket, together with a small bank. The basket is started with one of the members who prepares a dish, places it in the basket and delivers it to one of the ladies whose name appears on the list. The recipient of the dish estimates the worth of the dish and places the money in the small bank, and thus the basket proceeds among members and friends of the organization.

According to a report from the chairman on the garden project, the garden is well under way, with a goodly supply of potatoes, onions, carrots, mustard, spinach, green beans, black-eyed peas, cabbage and 3000 tomato plants. They are now ready to plant corn. Already the four persons working in the canning room in the P.-T. A. kitchen at the south grade school have canned 130 quarts of mustard and spinach and 243 quarts of green beans.

The cabbage is ready to be made into kraut, the carrots, lima beans and tomatoes will be canned and the potatoes and onions will be stored. This food is to be used in the organization's lunchroom at the grade school during the next term of school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell went with Joe to St. Louis Wednesday. He will go to New York for a visit with his uncles, Gerard and Giles Dover, and will report July 1 at West Point for his physical examination.

John Webb Bowman plans to leave Friday with Joe McCord for St. Louis, whence he will leave Saturday morning for Annapolis. He will report there Monday morning.

If all nominees pass their physical examinations, they will enter the academies as new students July 1.

David Lumsden Dies Suddenly

Well-Known Rural Mail Carrier Passes Away At St. Louis Hospital

Friends of David Lumsden, longtime rural mail carrier out of Sikeston, were shocked to learn of his sudden death late Thursday morning at the Lutheran Hospital in St. Louis.

Mr. Lumsden, with his wife, had driven Tuesday to St. Louis to undergo an operation. He had not been in failing health, although he underwent an examination at the hospital two weeks ago because he was losing weight. The operation was not expected to be dangerous, but Wednesday evening a call from St. Louis to the children notified them that Mr. Lumsden was not expected to live.

The children, who were at his bedside, were Mrs. C. C. Reed, of Cooter, Orville Lumsden, David, Jr., and Miss Evelyn Shirley, whom the Lumsdens reared from childhood. Mr. Reed and Mrs. Orville Lumsden also went to St. Louis.

Mr. Lumsden was born in Illinois. For 21 years he carried mail on Rural Route 2 northeast of Sikeston through Blodgett and Miner Switch. He lived at 113 Cresap.

He was the inventor of the Faultless automatic water heater. His postal duties prevented his exploiting the patent, but Orville Lumsden is engaged in this business.

He also leaves three brothers, Charles Lumsden of Matthews, Hugh Lumsden of Union City, Tenn., and Herbert Lumsden in Illinois, and a married sister in Michigan.

Arrangements were made by the Albritton Funeral Home to transfer the body to Sikeston. Funeral plans had not been made Thursday.

Mrs. Mollie Harper, who has been seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Vogelsang in Cape Girardeau, spent from Sunday to Tuesday in Sikeston and has returned to Cape Girardeau for further treatment.

GAME DUCK DIET INCLUDES MANY PLANTS AND ANIMALS

Game ducks in the United States and Canada eat more than 200 kinds of plants and animals, according to scientists of the Bureau of Biological Survey. The scientists examined 8,000 stomachs of 18 game duck species so that conservationists and sportsmen may know what food are important. They found that 69 per cent of the food of these birds is plant material and 31 per cent is animal.

The game duck's diet includes sago pondweed, which is probably the most important single waterfowl plant on the continent, and flowering plant in the world, watermeal, the smallest known which measures only about one thirty-second of an inch in diameter.

Snails and insects head the list of animal foods, each forming about eight and a half per cent by volume of the total consumed.

The only pure sulphur mine in the world is on the strange island of Saba, lying south of the Virgin Islands. Saba is a volcanic cone rising from the sea, Eight hundred steps lead up from the beach to the town, curiously called "The Bottom," and people by an isolated community of thrifty Dutch, who construct seaworthy sloops inside the crater and lower them over the rocks to the sea.

Glowworms, which are luminscent beetles, cover the roof of the Glowworm Grotto in New Zealand. The millions of these tiny insects produce a fantastic blue light. They also drop down luminous, sticky strands to catch their insect prey.

The Atlantic Ocean off the Bahama Banks is often less than thirty feet deep and the unusual transparency of the water reveals many sea denizens. About 100 miles north of Puerto Rico is Nares Deep, the deepest known spot—27,972 feet.

NO one of the forty-eight states in the Union is entirely free of aliens—even those states hundreds of miles from any port of entry to the United States. Graphically illustrated above is the alien problem of the United States—a problem that is admittedly one of the major problems to be faced in the nation's fight for democracy.

The figures above give the number of white aliens, 21 or over, according to the 1930 census. They are in effect the total number of aliens eligible for citizenship in each of the states. A long-term attack on this vital problem was recently inaugurated by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, through its 1,500 subordinate lodges in cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

In most of these lodges, preliminary and first steps have already been taken to set the campaign in motion. The Elks campaign is based on a four-point program. It calls for a survey of the nation's aliens; a campaign to sell aliens on Americanism and American citizenship; instruction for citizenship; and an active part by the Elks in seeing that the aliens do acquire citizenship.

In each lodge there is, or will be set up a permanent naturalization committee. This committee not only guides Elks activities in naturalization, but seeks to make these activities community-wide. Such a community-wide effort is a forward step for democracy, Dr. Edward J. McCormick, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, believes.

AGENCIES OFFER FREE SANITARY PRIVIES

Letters are being sent from Farm Security offices in this section to rural landowners requesting permission to build sanitary privies on their land as part of the rural sanitation program. The Public Health Service of Missouri is co-operating with the Works Progress Administration and the FSA to build these free of charge. All that is asked of the owner is that he supply the necessary easements to permit workers to carry on construction on the land.

MISSISSIPPI COUNTY JUDGE PASSES AWAY

Hudson D. Sutherland, serving his second term as a member of the Mississippi County Court, died of a heart ailment at St. Mary's Hospital, Cairo, Ill., Sunday morning after becoming ill Saturday. Born at Farmington, he was for many years a Mississippi County landowner and lived at Charleston. For about 40 years he served on the board of education there. Two sons and three daughters survive. Rites were held Tuesday.

HOME OWNERS FORUM

By ABNER GORDON

PROTECTION should be provided against destructive termites by proper insulation at time of building.

A strip of metal—copper, copper iron alloy or similar material—should be installed between the foundation and the wood construction. The strip should be bent down and out to form a drip. This prevents entrance of the pests at the most vulnerable point.

Metal frames are advisable for basement windows to make protection complete. If wood frames are essential, application of a durable exterior paint will afford some protection.

Q.—Suggest method and formula for painting new galvanized iron. A.—Since surface conditions make paint adhesion difficult, brush thoroughly with solution four ounces copper sulfate, copper chloride or copper acetate dissolved in gallon of water.

This plates out in thin deposit, roughening surface so paint will stick. When surface is dry, brush lightly and rinse with water, after which apply paint.

Or better yet allow metal to weather several months until surface has roughened sufficiently to receive paint.

Experience recommends paint composed of 12 parts soft paste red lead 10 parts raw linseed oil, one part turpentine, one part liquid drier, because of its great adhesive and rust inhibiting qualities.

Q.—How can we get rid of earthworms without killing our grass? A.—Apply arsenate of lead in proportion of 5 pounds to each 1,000 sq. ft. of lawn. May be mixed with water and sprayed on with watering can, or mixed with dry sand and applied in like manner.

(The Home Owners Forum of the Home Service Bureau will be glad to help you solve home maintenance problems relating to plumbing, painting, etc. Write care of this paper.)

K. C. THUG BEGINS THREE-YEAR TERM

Jefferson City, June 19.—Charles Gargotta, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of assault with intent to kill Sheriff Thomas B. Bash of Jackson County nearly six years ago, was dressed in the Missouri Penitentiary this afternoon to serve his three-year sentence. Gargotta was not assigned immediately to any specific work.

The first indictment against Garotta dragged through 27 terms of courts before it was dismissed last winter at the request of W. W. Graves Jr., County Prosecutor. The dismissal brought a blast from Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, and Gargotta was reindicted.

The same grand jury also indicted Graves for neglect of official duty. His trial is set for August.

MATTHEWS TO STATE POST

James E. Matthews will go from his position as head of the penal department to a job in the State Highway Department at Jefferson City, a grapevine report from the state capitol says.

The gossip says that when Gov. Stark failed to send Matthews' name to the Senate for confirmation, showing that he would be ousted, a cry from civic workers through the state went up against a return of political spoilsism. It also has been said that a group of senators might use the incident as an excuse for showing their personal feelings against some of the appointments to be approved and the matter has been watched closely for the concluding chapter.

"An arangement has been made to take care of Matthews in the Highway Department so he will be back in his favored work and so he won't have to move his family away from Jefferson City," a report said, but it was not intimated who was responsible for the new arrangement.

The general feeling in Jefferson City seems to be that Matthews was ousted on the insistence of certain political leaders of Scott County. An authority that is usually correct says that no quarters will be shown anyone in Scott County who was active for Judge Billings and while Jimmy Matthews was not known to have taken any part whatever in that contest, he is charged with close friendship for some leaders who stood out for Billings.

Gov. Stark is known to have had a high regard for Matthews and showed confidence in his direction of the penal work. This is what caused so much surprise when his name was not sent to the Senate. Since then, certain sources say, it has been found that the pressure from a group of district leaders, headed by a few from Scott County, demanded his removal and the governor finally capitulated.

It has also been whispered that the group who succeeded in eliminating Matthews tried their best to substitute another Scott County man of much experience, but Gov. Stark didn't seem to be interested.—Cape Missourian.

COULD THIS HAVE BEEN SIKESTON

Missouri certainly has some very funny liquor laws. I went to a liquor store in a small Missouri town and asked for a drink of whisky. They couldn't sell me a drink, but they could sell me a half-pint. I could buy it, but I couldn't drink it or open it there. I could drink it in my room if I had one, or in an alley if the law didn't see me.

So I asked for a bottle of beer. They couldn't sell me one bottle, but they could sell me three. I couldn't open them there, but I could take them out cold. I bought three bottles. They were cold and had to be drunk before they got warm, so I drank all three in my car.

When I started to drive, I found that I was too drunk to drive a car and had to go onto a side road to sleep it off.

What I can't understand is why men claiming to be lawmakers would make such idiotic laws. If a person wants a drink of whisky, he wants only a drink, not a half-pint. If he wants beer, he doesn't want to have to buy enough to make him dizzy.—John Hall, Cairo, Ill.

Why Many Fail To Get Well

Some people believe that herbs are the means of attaining health; others hunt for health in a spoon full of liquid, or special diets, baths, climate, mental attitude and hundreds of other means. So it is natural to wonder just what constitutes health. A famous authority has stated that health is the result of normal function of all body organs and tissues. It is reasonable then to believe that a number of necessary things enter into the problem of maintaining the balance of function—fresh air and sunshine, good food, sufficient sleep, exercise, a perfect co-ordination of function between organs and tissues, etc. It is the function of co-ordination that depends upon the nervous system. Any structural change of the body that interferes with the flow of nerve energy will change the "timing" of organic functions, and ill health is the result. Chiropractors have spent almost half a century studying this particular phase of "disease-cause" and find that it plays an important part in almost every sickness. To neglect the nervous system in regaining health is to overlook one of the most important factors to normal function. And it is to this reason, we believe, that there is so much chronic sickness today.

GOOD OLD SUMMERTIME

Are You Enjoying the Summer Weather? Well Folk Enjoy the Summer But It Is Hard on Those Who Do Not Feel Tip Top.

Most folks enjoy traveling and vacationing during the Summer but oh! how hard it is on the people who are sick. If you feel lazy and no account all the time, you do not want to travel or do anything that takes any pep at all—your energy is all gone and sometimes you feel you are in hard luck because the other fellow is having a good time and you feel so rotten.

MALARIA AND BILIOUSNESS THE CAUSE OF THAT NO ACCOUNT FEELING

Physicians of the South learned many years ago that nine out of ten cases of illness in this Southern climate was caused by two diseases — Malaria and Biliousness. They agree that if you will keep your system clean and pure by avoiding Constipation and Biliousness, and keep out the Malaria Germs, the chances are ten to one you will feel well and be a well man or woman.

NASH'S TONIC FOR MALARIA—BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

So take stock of yourself. If you have the symptoms of Malaria and Biliousness don't wait until you have chills and fevers but get busy with Nash's Tonic today. A great many people make the mistake of not heeding Nature's warnings but feel badly for many weeks before they begin treatment. When you begin to feel lazy and drowsy—when you have poor digestion and stomach disorders—when you feel stretchy and have slight headache and back ache. Then is the time to begin treatments. Nature warns you with these symptoms in plenty of time if you will only pay attention to the warnings.

NASH SAYS YOU CAN'T LOSE ON HIS PROPOSITION

Thousands of families are now keeping well and full of energy with Nash's C. & L. Tonic. Mr. Nash, the drug manufacturer, says if you will purchase one 50c bottle of Nash's Tonic and take for one week he will guarantee you will feel lots better. IF YOU DON'T YOUR MONEY WILL BE CHEERFULLY REFUNDED WITHOUT QUESTION. Sikeston Druggists say that Nash's is by far their best selling tonic and gives universal satisfaction.

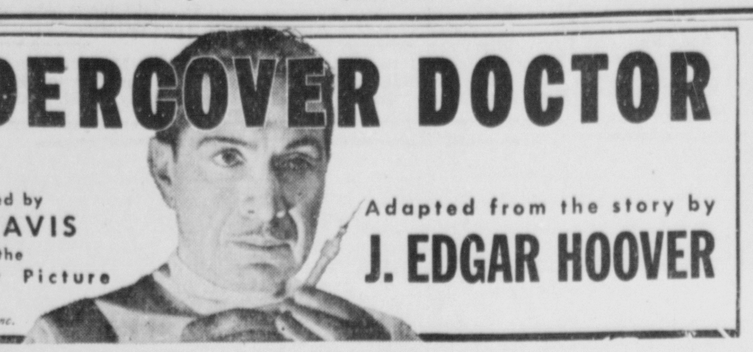
UNDERCOVER DOCTOR



Serialized by J. R. TRAVIS from the Paramount Picture

Copyright 1939 by Paramount Pictures Inc.

CHAPTER FOUR SYNOPSIS: Dr. Bart Morgan, brilliant young surgeon addicted to liquor, becomes a "gangland doctor" when he does not achieve success in legal practice. Bank bandits headed by Eddie Krator, Public Enemy No. 1, are his best customers. Morgan gets a call from Krator to come to the Ace Inn. Krator is gone when he arrives. On the return trip to town he finds Bob Anders, a G-Man, seriously wounded in a gasoline station. He operates and saves Anders' life. When Krator hears about Anders, he plans to kill Bart.

CHAPTER V

BART MORGAN faced Eddie Krator calmly. When he spoke, his voice was steady.

"Before we start on our little boat ride, gentlemen," he said, "there's something you should know. In case I were to fall overboard—purely by accident, of course—it might prove very embarrassing to all of you." He smiled coolly at them. "My lawyer has a sealed envelope upon which is written: 'To be opened after my death.' In that envelope is a paper and on that paper is written: 'In the event that I disappear or am found murdered, arrest Eddie Krator, Johnny Franklin, Spats Edwards and Elmer Porter.'"

Bart stopped and studied the angry faces of the men. He chuckled.

"Dear old Uncle Elmer," he continued. "Then there follows a list containing the details of every crime you've committed and a list of all your hideouts, including Eddie's favorite fishing shack. And also your fingerprints, which I have been able to pick up from time to time."

Krator and Franklin digested this in sullen silence. Bart broke it.

"Well, gentlemen, let's get started on our little boat trip. The weather is delightful. The lake should be like glass." He arose and started for the door. Krator raised his gun. Franklin grabbed Eddie's arm and forced it down. "Not now, Eddie," he whispered. "Not now."

Morgan closed the door behind him.

Nothing further happened for several weeks. When Bob Anders was safely out of danger, Margaret resigned from the hospital staff at Bart's insistence, and joined him as his office nurse. She wouldn't admit it to herself but she wanted to be near Bart. He needed her, she told herself.

One morning as Bart entered his office he found Elmer Porter in the waiting room. The latter followed Bart into his private office.

"Can we be heard in here?" Porter asked cautiously. Bart assured him they could not. "I've been trying to get you on the phone for weeks," Porter went on. "Why didn't you answer?"

"I told Krator I was through and I meant it."

Porter was silent for a moment. "Suppose Courtney Weld were to learn that his daughter is going to marry a criminal doctor?" he suggested softly at last.

"Since we're just supposing," Bart snapped, "suppose the police found out that Elmer Porter, Respectable Citizen No. 1 isn't so respectable."

"You're being foolish, Morgan. You can't walk out on us."

"I'm not taking any more chances. Get someone else."

"That takes time," Porter pointed out. "And we need a doctor to stand by, today!"

"No!"

"Unless you date me up for dinner tonight," Bob said, "I'm liable to tear up the place."

"'No' is a word to be used only after mature deliberation," Porter argued. "I wouldn't say that you're being impetuous."

"Let me worry about that," Bart said shortly and led the way to the waiting room. Margaret was seated at her desk. For her benefit, Bart added:

"Follow my advice, Mr. Porter. Stay away from doctors and your health will be perfect."

"Perhaps, Doctor, perhaps," Porter replied, fully understanding Bart's double meaning. As Porter opened the outer door, Bob Anders entered. The two collided slightly and Anders stared at the older man.

"I'm sorry," Bob said. Porter grunted angrily and continued on his way.

As Morgan turned back into his private office, Margaret followed him. Bart crossed to a liquor cabinet and poured down a stiff drink. Feeling her accusing eyes, Bart turned and faced the girl.

"I know what you're going to say," he flared. "You had to cancel a lot of appointments. Well, I was busy." He seized the phone and dialed a number.

The broker's voice was plainly audible to both of them. "Sorry, Bart, but I can't carry you. You're into me now for twenty-five thousand and I've got to have it."

"Hold the wire," Morgan said as he turned to Margaret. "How much is due in outstanding accounts?"

"About ten thousand dollars," she answered.

Bart turned back to the telephone. "I can raise about ten thousand in a few days." He listened for a moment. "But I can't get it all by tomorrow," he insisted.

"And I can't wait any longer," the broker was equally positive. "If you haven't got it in the morning, I'll have to sell you out when the market opens Sorry, Bart. Goodbye."

Bart put down the phone and picked up the bottle. Margaret seized his arm. "You can face it a lot better without that," she said angrily.

Bart pushed her away. "I'm in no mood for lectures," he said.

The sound of the door chimes halted him. Out in the waiting room, Bob Anders had opened and closed the outer door to attract attention. Margaret hurried out.

"Hello," Bob said, eyeing her appreciatively.

Margaret smiled. "And hello to you."

"Tell me, why did you up and vanish one day while I was taking a snooze?" Bob demanded. "Was that any way to treat a fellow when he was in a hospital?"

"I quit my job and came here to work with Dr. Morgan," the girl explained. "I . . . I . . . was going to say goodbye to you but you looked so comfortable and happy. . . ."

"You want to know why?" Bob cut in. "I was dreaming that you and I punting on the Thames—just the two of us. No, that wasn't it. We were throwing crumbs to our pet sea gulls, the ones on our own desert island."

Margaret laughed. "So. We had an island. I didn't know."

"That's why I dropped around—to tell you about it." He grinned at her. "You think I'm crazy, don't you?"

"Well, not violently so."

"Unless you let me date you up for dinner and a show tonight, I'm liable to tear up the place."

"We have a nice padded cell, Mr Anders."

"Then you're quite safe, Miss Hopkins. What time did you say I should call for you?"

"I didn't say," Margaret smiled.

ELECTRIC RANGE HAS NEW ECONOMY UNIT IN THRIFTO-MATIC SWITCH

Nowhere in the home is the time element more important than in the kitchen as so many homemakers know today. In appreciation of this fact, the new 1939 Frigidaire electric range presents to its public the recently developed Thermizer with the "Thrifto-Matic" switch, an automatic device which reduces cooking to a mere matter of turning a dial.

"The new Thrifto-Matic switch", according to F. D. Lair, local Frigidaire dealer, "is believed by Frigidaire engineers to be one of the greatest contributions ever made to the convenience of electric cooking. Heretofore, a special trip to the range was necessary to change the Thermizer from high heat to low. The Thrifto-Matic, however, eliminates this time waste by automatically changing heats at a time designated by the initial placement of the switch when cooking is begun. A clock mechanism slowly turns the handle so that when the designated time has elapsed the heat has changed from high to low without a moment's attention from anyone."

No housewife will want to overlook such a feature which provides safe and correct temperature cooking with a minimum of effort. There is no longer any need for burned food which was forgotten when the phone rang or somebody came to the door.

"In addition to time economy", says Mr. Lair, "this new device is friendly to the monthly budget by eliminating unnecessary electricity consumtion and forestalling the possibility of cooking food to replace that which was burned. Another step forward has been taken towards the banishment of drudgery in cooking with the advent of Frigidaire's new Thrifto-Matic, and hours spent in the kitchen can now be greatly reduced and made more pleasant."

Cheese Dishes for Economy

Many cheese dishes are substantial enough to serve as meat substitutes. They are varied in character and flavor and hence may be used frequently without monotony.

CHEESE PUFFIT

1 cup left-over cooked ham
1 teaspoon minced onion.
2 tablespoon butter
2 ½-inch slices soft bread
2 eggs, separated
½ lb. fresh yellow cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 1/3 cups hot milk
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Put ham and onion through grinder. Pan-fry genity 3 minutes with butter. Arrange in a layer in a deep baking dish rubbed with fat. Break bread into small pieces. Sliver cheese. Combine bread, cheese, beaten egg yolks and heated milk. Add salt and paprika. Let stand 20 minutes. Add parsley. Then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baking dish containing ham. Bake in a slow oven 45 minutes.

CHEESE BISCUITS

2 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon shortening
½ cup grated cheese
¾ cup milk

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with a knife. Add cheese, then milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in a quick oven 10 to 15 minutes.

CHEESE RAMEKINS

Roll out thin on a floured board, cut in 2-inch squares, fill with sliced peaches, preserved figs or jam. Pinch the four corners together, place on a buttered tin and bake in a moderate oven until light brown.

Uses for Sour Cream

Sour cream as an ingredient of fine cookery is too apt to be overlooked, and this is a pity, for it imparts a flavor and richness to many dishes that is unsurpassed. The following dishes are but a few of many that utilize sour cream to great advantage.

CHEESE TORTE

1 pkg. zwieback
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Roll the zwieback to fine crumbs. Add the butter and sugar and line a spring form, pressing the crumbs firmly about the bottom and sides. Fll with a custard filling and bake in a slow oven.

CUSTARD FILLING

1 cup sugar
1 cup soured cream
1 lb. cottage cheese
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs

Put cheese through a sieve, cream with sugar, flour and salt. Add beaten yolks, soured cream and vanilla. Mix well and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into the zwieback-lined pan.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
3 squares bitter chocolate
½ cup soured cream
½ cup butter
¾ cup hot water
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 heaping teaspoon soda

Dissolve chocolate in hot water. Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten egg yolks. Dissolve soda in a little milk and thin the cream. Combine all mixtures and let stand for 3 minutes before mixing in the sifted flour. Bake in a shallow pan in moderate oven 40 minutes.

BOILED FISH

1 silver trout
1 carrot
1 onion
1 quart water
3 stalks celery
Salt and pepper
½ pint soured cream

Slice fish, bring water with diced vegetables to a boil, add fish, salted to taste. Boil 30 minutes. Remove fish to platters. Strain liquid in a bowl, add soured cream and pour over the fish.

Adolf Hitler never got beyond grammer school; and he never held a public office of importance until he was made Chancellor of Germany when the Nazis came to power.

DIONNE QUINS PUT ON DIET TO REDUCE BULGING WAISTLINES

Callander, Ontario, June 19.—The Dionne quintuplets were put on a diet today to scale down their bulging waistlines. The girls were described as "pudgy" by one of their nurses, and their physician, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, decided that five slim sisters were better than five fat ones.

Dr. Dafoe said the quins would have to quit eating potatoes and other starchy foods. He said he tried "not to bother" when the girls started getting fat, but had to call a halt when buttons began popping off.

BRIEF QUAKE ROCKS SOUTHERN ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Ark., June 19.—South Arkansas, from Little Rock to the Louisiana line, was shaken sharply today by a brief earthquake. No damage was reported from the tremor, which lasted only a few seconds.

St. Louis University's seismograph recorded the quake for about five minutes, beginning at 3:44.23 p. m.

The tremor was also felt at Hope and Texarkana, southwest from Arkadelphia to the Texas line. The Shreveport, La., Times received several telephone calls from residents who said they felt the earth movement.

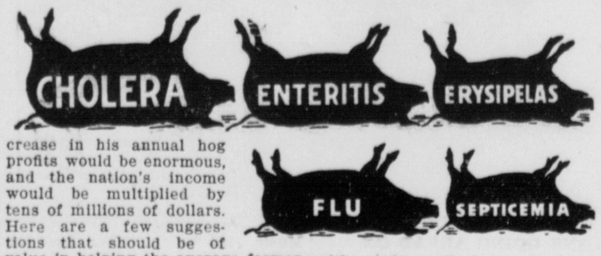
WHY HOGS DIE; THE FIVE GREAT CAUSES OF SWINE LOSSES

Few swine raisers realize that the major share of all hog losses in this country is due to but five causes—hog cholera, enteritis, influenza or pneumonia, parasites, hemorrhagic septicemia, and erysipelas.

If the farmer could keep just these five out of his herd, the increase in his annual hog profits would be enormous, and the nation's income would be multiplied by tens of millions of dollars. Here are a few suggestions that should be of value in helping the average farmer to guard his herd against these five destroyers:



Hog Cholera—Cannot be cured. The only safeguard is vaccination before an outbreak occurs. The best time to vaccinate is around weaning time, and it is best to have the work done only by a veterinarian. Symptoms of cholera—sluggishness, fever, partial paralysis, tendency of hogs to pile up.

Enteritis—A filth-borne disease, picked up in old, infected hog lots. Best preventive is to farrow and rear pigs on clean pasture, away from old lots. Symptoms—loss of weight, diarrhoea, weakness. At first signs, call a veterinarian.

Hemorrhagic Septicemia, or swine plague—Very difficult to distinguish from hog cholera, and frequently one disease is complicated with the other. Symptoms similar to cholera, including fever, loss of appetite, and weakness. Prompt veterinary treatment is urgent, and hogs should be put into clean quarters, with good ventilation, and given a careful diet.

Influenza, or Swine Flu—Very contagious. Pigs run high temperatures, are weak, show eye inflammation, frequently breathe with difficulty. Keep hogs in warm, dry quarters, out of draughts. Give plenty of water, but reduce rations.

Virulent Erysipelas—Symptoms, like cholera, include fever, lack of appetite, sometimes partial prostration. Immediate diagnosis by a veterinarian is important. Great care should be used in handling hogs, because the disease can be transmitted to man.

Approve 3 Bills, Carrys, $20,447,123

Jefferson City, June 20.—The House approved with no debate and only nominal opposition today conference reports on three major appropriations bills carrying $20,447,123 from general revenue.

The measures provide for the state's educational institutions, the eleemosynary institutions, and the elective officials, courts and some executive departments. The Senate must approve the reports before they finally go to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

The eleemosynary bill as finally rewritten in conference allots $4,741,943, or $7709 more than it carried when the House first passed it. The educational measure appropriates $8,929,892, a decrease of $72,367 from the original. The civil list bill carires $6,775,488, or $171,966 less than the original.

House Appropriations Chairman John D. Taylor (Dem.), Keytesville told the House its conferees strove to restore Senate reductions in the education bill "but they overpowered us."

"They took $100,000 off the salary allotment for the State University, $10,000 from each teachers' college, and $100,000 from the university's crippled children program. Taylor explained.

"All of our arguments against these cuts were in vain. Sometimes I'm inclined to think the Missouri Senate is in favor of ignorance."

Will Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson will quietly observe their 50th wedding anniversary this Friday, June 23, at their home on South Ranney. Their son, James Johnson, and his family, Mrs. Johnson and two children, Mary Ann and Jimmy, will be with them for that event.

On June 23, 1889, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married by the Rev. R. F. Chew at the old Methodist parsonage then located on Front Street.

Mr. Johnson was the first manager of Mill "B" for the Scott County Milling company, taking charge of the mill when it was first built. He continued in the employ of the Company for 43 years, ill health forcing him to retire from the work.

Mrs. Johnson came to Sikeston when a small child from her birthplace near Hickman, Ky., and Mr. Johnson is a native of Eldorado, Ill.

JUNIOR LEGION TEAM TO PLAY CHARLESTON

The Junior Legion baseball team will go to Charleston this Friday for a scheduled game. Charleston won the game here Tuesday, 8-7, when the visitors scored five runs in the ninth. Sikeston holds victories Dexter twice and Cape Girardeau once, and lost to Cape once.

Employed as Elementary Principal

At a meeting of the Board of Education Wednesday Edwin Hartford of near Kirksville was employed as Elementary Principal of the south grade school.

Mr. Hartford is a graduate of Kirksville Teachers College and last year was High School principal at Kewanee. He is now working on his Masters degree at the University of Missouri. He is married.

At the meeting Wednesday the Board also approved the summer repairs.

Legislature to Adjourn Saturday

Jefferson City, June 19.—A resolution to adjourn the sixtieth General Assembly sine die at noon Saturday and thus bring to an end the longest legislative session in the history of Missouri, was adopted today by the House and the Senate. Members of the Assembly have been receiving only $1 a day since May 4. The proposal was first approved by the House and then by the Senate. Senator Frank P. Briggs, the majority floor leader, told the Senate it probably would not be possible to hold a quorum of the House in Jefferson City this week, unless the Senate acted favorably on the resolution.

If the Legislature has not concluded its business by the hour specified in the resolution, the clocks in the House and Senate chambers will be stopped and the proceedings will continue until pending matters are disposed of. Regardless of how long beyond Saturday noon the Legislature works, the records will show that it adjourned sine die at that hour.

Saturday will be the one hundred and seventy-second calendar day of the present session. The 1937 Legislature adjourned sine die June 8 and the 1931 session adjourned June 15, but practically the last 30 days of that session were devoted to the impeachment proceedings brought against State Treasurer Larry Brunk.

Tasty Meals Aid Summer Appetites

In the good old summertime, appetites may not be quite so keen as they are during the winter and perhaps our food requirements aren't exactly the same. Nevertheless we do not nourishing foods at all seasons of the year and certainly we need them during these days of outdoor activity. We need a liberal supply of protein, the building food, of which meat is a good source of supply. Vegetables and fresh fruits appeal to us at this time of year, and we should make full use of them. But the wise homemaker keeps her menus well balanced during the summer as well as in the other seasons of the year.

Here are a series of tempting meals, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist, all well suited to this season and containing all the food elements required for good health. They are all easily prepared, which is also an advantage.

Soup for Luncheon

A delicious soup served piping hot makes an adequate and satisfying luncheon, particularly when served with toasted bread or rolls.

ONION SOUP

6 cups beef or chicken stock or bouillon cubes dissolved in 6 cups water
Salt to taste
¾ lb. onions, sliced
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup grated cheese
Brown onions slightly in butter. Stir in stock and add salt. Simmer until onions are tender. Butter toast and sprinkle with cheese. Just before serving pour soup into individual dishes and top each serving with toast and set in a hot oven long enough to melt cheese and brown lightly.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

½ can or pint of tomatoes
¼ teaspoon soda
1 slice onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoon butter
1 quart milk

Cook the onion with the milk. Heat butter, add flour and seasoning, 2/3 cup hot milk, then the rest gradually. Heat the strained tomatoes, add the soda and when the bubbling stops add the tomato to the white sauce.

MULLAGATAWNY SOUP

1 tablespoon beef drippings
1 large onion
2 quarts stock
2 tablespoons chopped carrot
3 tablespon chopped celery
½ lemon
2 cloves
2 peppercorns
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon boiled rice
½ cup cooked diced chicken or veal

Slice the onion and fry it brown in the drippings. Put it in the stock with carrot, celery, lemon juice, cloves and peppercorns. Mix the curry powder and salt to a smooth paste with a little water and add that also. Simmer one hour, strain and cool. Remove the fat, add the meat and rice. Reheat and serve.

Simple Summer Desserts

Warm weather desserts should be light and piquant. And they need not involve much labor in preparation, for these are days to be out-of-doors.

CORNSTARCH PUDDING

3 cups scalded milk
6 level tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup cold milk
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the cornstarch with the cold milk and stir the scalded milk slowly into this mixture and stir over hot water until the mixture thickens. Beat the eggs slightly; add sugar and salt; pour over them the cornstarch mixture and cook one minute longer. Serve cold with cream and sugar.

COCONUT TAPIOCA

4 tablespoons tapioca
1 quart milk
Yolks 3 eggs
1/3 cup shredded coconut
2/3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Whites of 3 eggs
3 tablespoons sugar

Soak the tapioca in water over night; drain and add the milk. Bring slowly to the boiling point and stir in the yolks of the eggs beaten with the sugar. Cook until the custard thickens, stirring all the time. Remove from the fire and add the coconut and vanilla. Make a meringue of the whites of eggs and sugar and pile lightly over the custard and set in the oven until delicately brown.

COFFEE JELLY

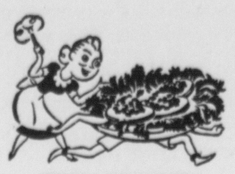
2 tablespoon granulated gelatine
½ cup cold water
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup boiling water
¼ cup sherry wine

Soak gelatine in cold water 2 minutes; add the boiling coffee. When dissolved, stir in the sugar and boiling water and when cool, the wine. Strain into a mold and when set, unmold and serve with cream and sugar.

BOHEMIAN CREAM

Stir together and whip to a froth 1 pint double cream and 1 pint grape juice. Put in cups and set in refrigerator for several hours.

Cooks' Council



SPICY STARTER

Lots of folks nowadays favor the appetizer salad as the first course of a festive menu in place of canapés and cocktails. This is a small, high-flavored salad—a piquant pick-up to tantalize the taste buds and whet the appetite for the meal to follow. A crisp cool lettuce leaf, for instance, trimmed with a lacing of spiced apple circlets, then topped with a fresh fruit filling makes a tasty tidbit for a starter. Salads of this sort should be served hors d'oeuvres fashion at the table—arranged on salad plates, then placed on service plates before the guests are seated. Be sure to put a small salad fork at the extreme left of the silverware for each cover when you serve this savory spiced apple salad:

APPLE RINGS

Core, then cut crosswise into very thin slices—
Large red apples.
Marinate in—
Horseradish French Dressing (below).
Line small salad plates with—
Curly endive.
Drain, then overlap three apple slices in center of plate.
Top each apple slice with a small mound of—
Mixed diced fruits, fresh or canned.

HORSERADISH FRENCH DRESSING

Soak—
1½ teaspoons evaporated horseradish
In—
4 teaspoons cold water 5 minutes.
Combine in flask—
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon paprika.
Add horseradish together with—
¼ cup pure cider, malt or tarragon vinegar
½ cup pure olive oil.

SNAPPY SAUCE

Here is a versatile horseradish sauce you can use in all sorts of ways—to snap up a pallid platter of cold cuts—inject a dash of zip in brown gravies—liven a cream sauce for broccoli or cauliflower—or tone up a temperate French dressing. It's easy and practical to make when you use the evaporated horseradish that comes bottled in granulated form. You see this dried horseradish retains all the savor and fine pungent flavor of a root grated fresh from your own garden and keeps indefinitely since the moisture has been removed. It surely saves a world of time and tears to get your horseradish in this form, and guarantees a fresh flavored sauce at a few moments'

notice. Just mix with water, add a sharp infusion of distilled white vinegar and serve so:

HORSERADISH SAUCE

Soak—
2 tablespoons evaporated horseradish
10 minutes in—
2 tablespoons cold water.
Add, blending thoroughly—
2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt.

Use as desired on meats or in hot sauces.

SPAGHETTI, SOUTHERN STYLE

How would you like a snappy new way to serve spaghetti? Here it is, Creole style, from the land where food is famed for fine seasoning. Just take green pepper shreds, tiny button mushrooms, and onion smidgens and brown in butter. Then open up a tin of ready-to-serve spaghetti and spoon into the skillet to heat until the spaghetti sizzles and circles of steam spiral up from the skillet. Served with a green salad, hard rolls, fresh fruit, and coffee, this makes a truly continental supper dish:

CREOLE SPAGHETTI

Brown—
2 tablespoons chopped mushrooms
⅓ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
In—
2 tablespoons fat or bacon drippings.
Add—
1 medium (17 oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese.

Heat thoroughly.

A New Summer Tea Ring

At an informal summer tea, Orange Ring is a dainty quick bread to serve. It is made from a scone dough, which is a first cousin to the simple-to-make biscuit. Its special goodness is due to the Orange Sugar that is sprinkled over the dough before the ring is baked.

ORANGE RING

2 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk or orange juice
Orange Sugar

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Cut or rub in the shortening. Beat egg, add milk or orange juice and add all to dry ingredients. Blend with a fork until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll out into rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with Orange Sugar. Roll jelly roll fashion and cut into 1½ inch slices. Place slices cut side down close together in a well-buttered ring mold. Bake in moderately hot oven (425°F.) 25 minutes. While hot frost with Orange Icing, made with confectioners' sugar and orange juice.

To make Orange Sugar, add grated rind of ½ orange to ½ cup sugar and mix thoroughly. Store in tightly covered jar.

NEW YORK POLICE GET PLEA TO FIND MAN CHINESE WIFE

New York, June 19.—The New York Police Department, which does not give advice to the lovelorn, despite the name of its high commissioner—Valentine—is considering an Oklahoman's request for aid in finding a pretty Chinese wife.

A letter signed by Ken P. Hess of Oklahoma City informed Commissioner Valentine, "if you can find a Chinese wife for me, I will forever be grateful to you. So tell me how I should go about it."

FREEZE IN COLORADO DAMAGES CROPS

La Jara, Colo., June 19.—Freezing weather early today caused extensive damage to crops and gardens in the San Luis Valley in extreme Southern Colorado and the Colorado Springs area, farther north, where ice formed on still water.

The writer, identifying himself as a non-Chinese former soldier drawing $80 monthly compensation, specified that the woman not be more than 27 years old, able to cook, fond of children and "affectionate, kind and sincere."

During the time that Gustave Charpentier was writing his opera "Louise" he would have starved if a kindhearted shopkeeper hadn't extended him credit. When the opera proved a success the composer took all his friends on a tour of the Paris night clubs.

Deems Taylor, the well-known critic-composer, was at one time a vaudeville actor. A manager offered him "top billing" to do a skit with funny-looking hats.

Dempster's Nudge Shoe Factory, 5-4

Dempster's blanked the Shoe Factory for six innings and cut short a home stretch rally in the seventh, winning 5-4 Monday night at the softball field.

It was a game in which outfielders on both sides starred in catching fly balls, and a game where both teams pulled themselves out of several holes with the bases clogged with runners. The Furniture team had 11 men left on bases and the Shoe Factory eight.

Curtis Barr, who pitched nearly all the game, broke the scoring ice in the first. He singled and three successive walks behind him forced in a run. In the next batting session Dempster's picked up two runs, when Wagner hit and Jones knocked a double, scoring on Barr's and Clark's singles. Jones walked in the sixth and stole home on a passed ball. In the seventh Clark hit into an error and tallied on Week's single.

Paul Crain led off the Shoe Makers' rally when he hit into an outfield error. Hill followed with a single, and Pitcher Sam Vinson cleared the bases with a far-reaching homerun near the third base line. Bartlett walked and Bennett's two-base blow scored the former. At this point Bob Dempster replaced Barr. Bennett managed to travel to third, but two men were thrown out at first and a strikeout checked the rally in midstream.

Barr yielded nine hits, and Vinson turned in eight.

Jack's Y in 12-9 Win Over Potashnick

Jack's led at first, saw the lead slip away in the fourth and came back in the fifth to hold the edge the rest of the trip, 12-9, over Potashnick Monday evening.

The total of 21 runs was made on 12 hits, and the error sheet registered 12 in all.

Four walks in the first were responsible for three Y runs. Potashnick countered with one run on three hits. In the third two hits and two errors added three more for the Y, but the ISCO retaliated in the fourth with eight runs, it 9-6. These were made on four hits, three of them two-baggers, and four miscues. On two lone hits the Y used four errors and a walk to gain six runs and retake the lead.

Fansler started for the Shoe Factory and Whitten went in on the mound in the third. Buck Carter went the route for the Y.

Delta CCC Boys Trim New Madrid

In a softball game featured by superb pitching on one side and erratic work in the field on the other, the negro boys of the Delta CCC Drainage Camp overwhelmed their white colleagues from the New Madrid Camp Sunday afternoon by a score of 18-1. The game was played at Delta before a large crowd of visitors and enjoyed perfect baseball weather. The next two games for the New Madrid Swamp Angels in the Southeast Missouri CCC Sub-district Softball league will be played Sunday in a triple-header at Poplar Bluff with the Poplar Bluff Ramblers and the Ellington Rams.

The blazing speed and bewildering delivery of Hoard, Delta hurler, baffled the Angels Sunday and limited them to three scattered hits. Hoard, hitting safely three times himself and doing a masterly job of directing the field play of his mates in addition to his hurling assignment, was easily the outstanding player in the game. Petey Carroll, of Lilbourn, got two of the Swamp Angels hits. Dale Tope, another Lilbourn product, snagged the only other hit off Hoard.

Company K Repels Odd Fellows, 13-4

Four early runs by the Odd Fellows proved a short-lived lead, Company K gathering steam in later innings while Johnny Marshall, who came to the mound in the second, pitched no-hit ball. The final score was 13-4.

Odd Fellows manufactured five hits into four runs in the second, and with one out Marshall came to the mound. From that time the Lodge went hitless and scoreless, and three men got as far as second base. Beginning with the last batter in the second inning, Marshall struck out eight men in a row and got 12 whiffs altogether.

On nine hits in the third and fourth innings, with errors and walks sprinkled in, the National Guard made seven runs and also accounted for a run in the first and in the last innings.

Watson Mize allowed seven runs and eight hits in 4 2/3 innings, and F. Williams five for the remainder of the game. The Lodge touched Lufcy for five hits.

Red Miller, reigning king of batters in the city leagues, whacked two for two bases and got a single and a walk for a perfect evening. At this stage of the season he is batting .700 per cent.
